

Release Date: May 2004
 308 Pages
 Paperback: ISBN 1-59385-025-5
 Cat. #4Z5025, $18.95
SPECIAL DISCOUNT PRICE: $17.05

Hardcover: ISBN 1-59385-026-3
 Cat. #4Z5026, $40.00
SPECIAL DISCOUNT PRICE: $36.00

The Complexity of Connection

WRITINGS FROM THE STONE CENTER'S
 JEAN BAKER MILLER TRAINING INSTITUTE

Edited by Judith V. Jordan, PhD,
 Maureen Walker, PhD,
 and Linda M. Hartling, PhD

“This is the book where the Stone Center theorists ask: ‘What purpose and whose interests do psychological theories serve?’ Refusing complicity with a culture of domination, they explore the complexity of human connection—its cultural contexts and therapeutic challenges. Readers will find an invitation to think about complicity and competition, especially among women, and also a guide to envisioning how connection can follow disconnection in families, and at work as well as in therapy.”

—Carol Gilligan, PhD

“In a culture toxic with aggression, competition, and ‘power over’ images, this book seeks to heal. Whether discussing race; isolation and loneliness; or raising caring, empathic sons, the authors write with authority and heart about important and deeply relevant issues. I cannot think of a book we need more in our sad, hard times.”

—Mary Pipher, PhD

In this important third volume from the Stone Center at Wellesley College, founding scholars and new voices expand and deepen the Center’s widely embraced psychological theory of connection as the core of human growth and development. Demonstrating the increasing sophistication of relational-cultural theory (RCT), the volume presents an absorbing and practical examination of connection and disconnection at both individual and societal levels. Chapters explore how experiences of race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, class, and gender influence relationships, and how people can connect across difference and disagreement. Also discussed are practical implications of the theory for psychotherapy, for the raising of sons, and for workplace and organizational issues.

CONTENTS

Introduction

I. Deepening Our Understanding of Relationship

1. Toward Competence and Connection, Judith V. Jordan
2. Relational Resilience, Judith V. Jordan
3. Relational Awareness: Transforming Disconnection, Judith V. Jordan
4. Therapists’ Authenticity, Jean Baker Miller, Judith V. Jordan, Irene P. Stiver, Maureen Walker, Janet L. Surrey, and Natalie S. Eldridge

5. Race, Self, and Society: Relational Challenges in a Culture of Disconnection, Maureen Walker
6. Shame and Humiliation: From Isolation to Relational Transformation, Linda M. Hartling, Wendy B. Rosen, Maureen Walker, and Judith V. Jordan
7. Racial Images and Relational Possibilities, Maureen Walker and Jean Baker Miller
8. Women, Race, and Racism: A Dialogue in Black and White, Andrea Ayvazian and Beverly Daniel Tatum

II. Applying the Power of Connection

9. Couple Therapy: A Relational Approach, Stephen J. Bergman and Janet L. Surrey
10. Relationships in Groups: Connection, Resonance, and Paradox, Nikki M. Fedele
11. Mothers and Sons: Raising Relational Boys, Cate Dooley and Nikki M. Fedele
12. Applications of the Relational Model to Time-Limited Therapy, Judith V. Jordan, Maryellen Handel, Margarita Alvarez, and Robin Cook-Nobles
13. Relational Theory in the Workplace, Joyce K. Fletcher

TO ORDER:

USE CODE 4Z FOR
 AUTOMATIC DISCOUNT

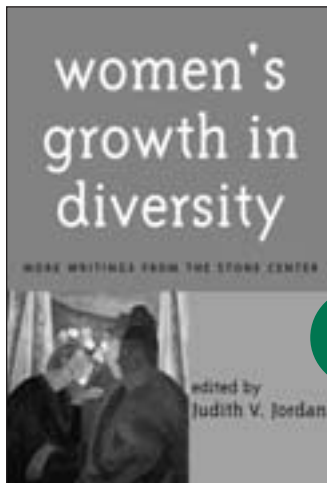

WEBSITE
WWW.GUILFORD.COM

CALL TOLL-FREE
 800-365-7006

FAX
 212-966-6708

10%
OFF

342 Pages, 1997
 Paperback: ISBN 1-57230-206-2
 Cat. #4Z0206, $19.95
SPECIAL DISCOUNT PRICE: $17.95

Women's Growth In Diversity

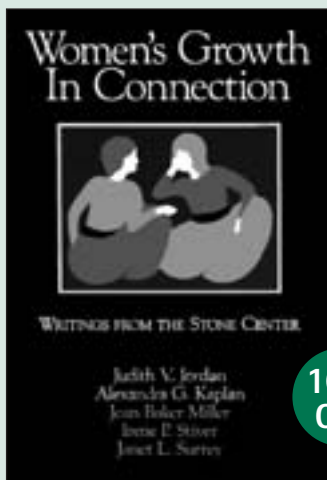

MORE WRITINGS FROM THE STONE CENTER

Edited by Judith V. Jordan, PhD

“A brilliant and essential book, grounded in compassion and rooted in the real world of female experience. Once again the work of the Stone Center gives us a more accurate and enriched view of women, charting provocative...directions not only for therapists, but for all who seek a deeper understanding of female development and the human condition.”

—Harriet Lerner, PhD

This volume builds on the foundations laid by the widely acclaimed Women's Growth In Connection to further describe the relational perspective, devoting special attention to the diversity of women's experience. Recognizing that differences among women—including those based on ethnicity, sexual orientation, socioeconomic status, age, and disability—can be a source of painful disconnection and disempowerment in a hierarchical society, the volume demonstrates how engaging with difference in relationship is a necessary source of growth. Contributing authors work toward an understanding of both the different kinds of marginalization that diverse women face and the strengths they bring to relationships, whether within families, in friendships and intimate relationships, in professional settings, or in therapy.

10%
OFF

310 Pages, 1991
 Paperback: ISBN 0-89862-465-7
 Cat. #4Z2465, $19.95
SPECIAL DISCOUNT PRICE: $17.95

Women's Growth In Connection

WRITINGS FROM THE STONE CENTER

Judith V. Jordan, Alexandra G. Kaplan, Jean Baker Miller,
 Irene P. Stiver, and Janet L. Surrey

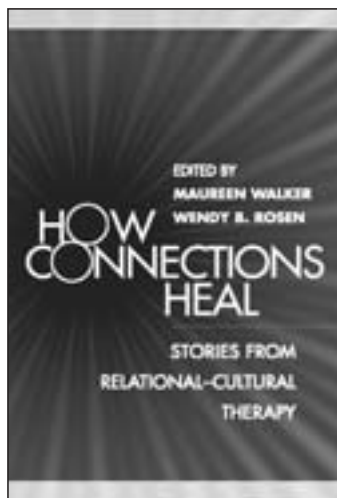

“A welcome gift for anyone who needs a...more convenient collection of already published working papers from the Stone Center or for those who are not familiar with this body of work. The Center's relational psychology is indispensable, a mainstay for any mental health professional who works with women. Whether one agrees with these psychologists' psychoanalytic framework, one simply cannot do without their contributions to the psychology of women.”

—Affilia, Journal of Women and Social Work

Women's Growth In Connection has become a classic in feminist examination and reshaping of psychological theory and practice. The first collection of working papers from the Stone Center at Wellesley College, the book questions the ways that traditional models of human development define health and maturity in terms of separation and consistently define women as deficient. The authors—clinicians, clinical supervisors, and teachers—present the innovative relational perspective on women's psychological development that has since become widely known as the Stone Center model. This multifaceted exploration of women's ways of being in the world addresses such important topics as the development of the self in connection with others, the importance of mutuality in relationships, empathy as a complex and affective process, and the challenges to traditional psychotherapeutic theory and practice.

Building on a quarter-century of influential work on the psychology of women, two new books from faculty and associates of the Stone Center's Jean Baker Miller Training Institute (JBMTI) delve into the power of connection in all people's lives. The Complexity of Connection—like the earlier Women's Growth In Connection and Women's Growth In Diversity—brings together working papers on the latest developments in relational-cultural theory, expanding and deepening the Stone Center model. How Connections Heal presents all-new chapters written especially for this volume by expert clinicians. Focusing closely on psychotherapeutic applications, revealing case narratives illustrate how relational-cultural theory can inform day-to-day work with clients.

NEW

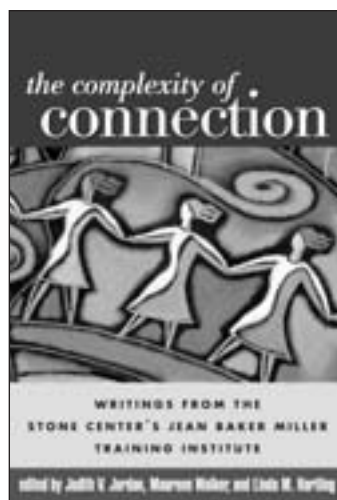

HOW CONNECTIONS HEAL

“A major contribution to the psychotherapy literature. Superbly organized and written chapters present a rich and wide array of cases, providing articulate, powerful illustrations of how relational-cultural theory can be applied in practice. Up-close views of work with diverse clients include fascinating discussions of therapist self-reflection and the repair of therapeutic errors. Much more of a ‘page turner’ than one can usually hope for in a professional book, How Connections Heal presents therapeutic dilemmas with which readers will readily identify and shows how other therapists have resolved them, interweaving cultural and feminist perspectives throughout. This is a highly interesting and informative resource for new as well as seasoned psychotherapists.”

—Melba J. T. Vasquez, PhD

NEW

THE COMPLEXITY OF CONNECTION

“To encounter the transformative vision of the Stone Center in a single volume is always a special pleasure. The theoretical and clinical wisdom in this book is stunning in its power to change the reader in some fundamental way, and to move the field of psychotherapy toward a more accurate, compassionate, and multilayered understanding of what hurts and heals in human relationships.”

—Harriet Lerner, PhD

TO ORDER:

USE CODE 4Z FOR
AUTOMATIC DISCOUNT

WEBSITE
WWW.GUILFORD.COM

CALL TOLL-FREE
800-365-7006

FAX
212-966-6708