

AFRICAN ORIGINS OF CHRISTIANITY

Friday, May 2, 2008
5:30-6:30
Pendleton East 239

*Refreshments to follow in Pendleton Atrium.

The African Origins of Christianity seminar is the first in the Religion and Culture series and will examine the relationship and influence of African culture and theology on Christianity as it is contemporarily practiced in the West. The lecture will feature both Dr. Charles Finch of the International H. Morehouse School of Medicine and Professor Pashington Obeng of Wellesley's Africana Studies Department.

This lecture is sponsored by the Protestant Chaplaincy, the Newman Catholic Ministry, the Religious Studies Department, the Office of Religious and Spiritual Life, and Africana Studies Department.
