Bahay Mulat Mata is a cataract clinic in the Philippines that aims to provide free cataract surgeries for indigent Filipinos. The website thus aims to publicize the cataract clinic's work, and potentially attract more sponsors, and efficiently store patient and mission information.

The site was developed with two different users in mind: the public, or potential sponsors, and the administration—the clinic's staff and doctors. While the public's access is limited to searching and viewing basic patient information, the administration is able to add and update patient information, as well as view all of a patient's data.

As of March 2013, the front-end was implemented using HTML, CSS, JavaScript (including the jQuery widget DatePicker and plug-in DataTables). PHP and MySQL were used to connect and handle the database.

SEARCHING & VIEWING

Sponsors can perform searches on a list of patients based on their name, age, sex, and address. They can click on a patient to view his/her basic information.

Implementations

When updating a patient's data, the staff selects a patient from a menu, and the full form will appear. The fields will be populated with current values from the database.

They can then update any of the fields and any changes will be inputted into the database. An updated patient information table will then be shown.
