

Addressing Racism and Anti-Blackness in French and Francophone Studies

Marlene L. Daut Haiti: History and Denial

The French Department welcomes Marlene L. Daut, Professor of African Diaspora Studies, University of Virginia, to deliver a lecture, Haiti: History and Denial, as part of a virtual colloquia series Addressing Racism and Anti-Blackness in French and Francophone Studies. This series features eminent scholars examining the role race plays in systems of power and thought in the field of French and Francophone Studies. We hope our series will foster conversations that combat racism and promote inclusion and equity in our classrooms and research.

Thursday, September 17, 2020

Conference 2:30-3:45 PM

Registration on Zoom is required.

wellesley.zoom.us/meeting/register/tJcuc02trjwpGNVQyTlr1uXUL86b5tmGw4y

This event is sponsored by the French Department.

This lecture will be delivered in English.

For questions, please contact Prof.
Michelle C. Lee ml104@wellesley.edu.

Accessibility and disability resources:
accessibility@wellesley.edu