PLTC Academic Support Resources for Students

Tutoring in the Content Areas
PLTC peer tutors are trained to provide tutoring in specific subjects across the curriculum. Tutors may have drop-in hours at various sites on campus, provide homework help and/or offer individual tutoring in selected courses. Tutoring schedules and Tutor Request Forms are available in the PLTC and on our website.

Residence Hall-Based Tutoring with the APTs
Academic Peer Tutors (APTs) are res hall based study skills tutors. They offer study skill workshops, study breaks, social events, referrals and information on Wellesley resources. They also work individually with students to help them learn new study techniques and assist with academic planning.

Public Speaking Assistance
Public speaking skills are essential at Wellesley and beyond. The Public Speaking Program is linked with specific courses to provide assistance for students in effective oral presentation skills.

Meet with the PLTC Director
The PLTC Director of Programs works individually with students to help them understand their learning style and current study skills as they learn new skills to effectively master their coursework.

Self-Help Study Skill Resources
We have many self-help handouts available in the PLTC and on our website. Topics include: note-taking, time management, tips for taking exams, etc.

On Campus Employment
The PLTC hires students! We provide training, certification (for tutors, APTs & SIIls) and a great work environment.

Supplemental Instruction
Supplemental Instruction, or SI, is an academic support service designed to help students enrolled in historically challenging courses. Courses with SI are noted in the registrar’s course schedule and posted in the PLTC.
