BIENVENUE à WELLESLEY-IN-AIX !

Your journey has begun! We look forward to helping you take advantage of the many opportunities available through the WIA program and to guiding you in your own discoveries of Provence and France!

Your objectives are multiple and varied: developing a deeper understanding of France and Europe, gaining different perspectives on the U.S. and the world, studying alongside French peers, improving your French, exploring Provence, making new friends, etc. This guide is intended to help you in that process, and we encourage you to share it with your parents or guardians. You will receive a copy in your welcome packet upon your arrival in Paris.

Keep in mind that your experience in France will be unique and depend on your efforts and choices on a daily basis. Like past WIA students, you will find that a semester passes very quickly, hence the importance of being proactive from Day 1 and taking advantage of every opportunity - cultural, linguistic or social – to speak French, observe cultural patterns and differences, participate in local groups and embrace a new and different lifestyle.

Below are a few suggestions and advice from WIA alumni and onsite staff:

- Take advantage of every opportunity to meet someone and speak French! Don't be afraid to talk to other students in your classes, professors, your neighbors, shopkeepers and market vendors, etc. Communication is the key to integration.
- Join an activity or club at the university (or elsewhere) as soon as possible! The best way to meet people is through a shared interest or passion: a sports team, musical group, hiking, cooking, volunteering, yoga, to cite just a few. French-English language exchanges also exist in Aix, so sign up for a "language buddy"!
- Monitor your time on Facebook or Skype with U.S. friends. You are coming to France to have new experiences and encounters, not to stay in your room or spend your free time online. This entails a willingness to « disconnect » and to interact with locals face-to-face and in their spaces. Don't be afraid to put yourself out there !
- Try to overcome your shyness. Asking questions is a good way to get the conversational ball rolling and shows you are curious and open - something the French appreciate. Invite a classmate for coffee or to a movie. If you wait for them to approach you; it might never happen. It's up to you to take the first step.
- Work on your French skills every day. Review and rewrite your class notes. Read the front page of Le Monde or buy a weekly magazine related to a personal interest and read for pleasure. Watch the « 20 heures » evening news with your French hosts. Go to a French movie or lecture once a week. Listen to the radio. It's a daily process.
- Speak French with other WIA participants, especially in public. Speaking English will mark you as a tourist in Paris and Aix and may also discourage people from approaching you or addressing you in French. Jouez le jeu! You'll be glad you did !
- Take advantage of student life in France! From movie and museum discounts to free university clubs and low-cost trips and student cafeterias, make an effort to live like a French student, not a tourist. Try to strike a balance between your desire to travel and to make local friends and be involved in the Aix community.

PRE-DEPARTURE INFO & ARRIVAL IN PARIS

1. PASSPORT, VISA & OTHER DOCUMENTS

As you know, you must have a valid passport for the duration of your stay, so be sure to check the expiration date of your current passport. All non-European students who stay more than three months in France must have a student visa. The Office of International Study (OIS) at Wellesley provides all the necessary information and facilitates this process.

All visa-related questions prior to departure should be addressed to Kristiana Graves at Wellesley's Office of International Study: kgraves@wellesley.edu

Note: Late arrivals in France will not be allowed due to failure to secure a consular appointment and obtain the necessary student visa prior to the program start date.

Your Campus France and visa fees will be reimbursed to your U.S. bank accounts once you are in France and all visas have been verified.

All full-year students should request and receive un VLS-TS (Visa de long séjour valant titre de séjour) and an OFII form (Office Français de l'Immigration et l'Intégration). Bring this form with you. If you didn't receive one, don't worry, but let the RD know in Paris.

1. If you receive a simple VLS (visa de long séjour) of 5-6 months :

You will be exempted from the mandatory physical in Marseille but you will not be allowed to work in France. Only the VLS with TS (titre de séjour) gives non-EU students this right.

2. If you receive a VLS-TS and OFII form at your consular appointment :

The OFII forms will be sent to the Marseille immigration office and a group appointment will be arranged for the mandatory 15-minute physical exam. This is essentially an administrative process. A WIA staff member will accompany the group to Marseille.

3. International Student i.d. card (ISIC):

You can order this card online and start using it right away in Paris for student discounts, We highly recommend it! Web site: <http://www.isic.fr>

You will receive a student card from Aix-Marseille Université within 1 month of your arrival.

2. INSURANCE

All WIA participants benefit from Travel Assist and ACE/EuropAssist. For details on what is included in this policy, consult: http://www.wellesley.edu/ois/emergency_info

It's also a good idea to double-check your insurance policy and verify that it covers

- Medication, accidents or medical emergencies during personal travel
- Mental health counseling. (Note: Not all policies cover this abroad.)
- Loss or theft of jewelry and other expensive personal valuables

Note: In the event of loss or theft of valuables such as jewelry, cameras, laptops and other electronic devices, you will have to produce original invoices in order to be reimbursed.

3. TRAVEL ARRANGEMENTS

From the U.S to France

You are responsible for purchasing your own airline ticket and making sure you arrive in Paris by 5 p.m. on the program start date. You will receive a stipend of 1,500 USD in your U.S. bank accounts from Wellesley College for your travel expenses. This amount covers:

- A round-trip ticket from your home (or other city) to France and back to the U.S.
- Transportation from CDG-Roissy airport to the Citadines-St Germain hotel in Paris.

Note: One-way tickets are always more expensive than round-trip tickets even if you have to pay to change your return date (i.e., in January or May). Be sure to ask about the change fee.

Luggage limits: In general, one checked suitcase weighing 23 kilos and 2 carry-ons (e.g., purse and computer) are allowed. Double check size and weight limits for specific airlines. A second checked suitcase can cost an additional $100 or more depending on the airline.

A backpack or small carry-on suitcase will come in handy for the train journey from Paris to Aix. Your larger suitcases will be picked up in Paris prior to our departure for Aix.

Note: If you take medication daily, be sure to pack it in your carry-on luggage.

How to get from Paris CDG-Roissy airport to the Citadines-Saint Germain des Prés

- By taxi: fixed rate of 50 euros. If you're traveling with another WIA student, share a taxi! Proceed to the taxi stand. Don't accept a ride from someone claiming to be a taxi driver at the arrival gate; you may be overcharged.

- By Air France bus, then taxi. These buses are not reserved for AF passengers. Line 4 goes to Montparnasse and line 2 to Etoile (Arc de Triomphe). You'll have to take a taxi from there to the Citadines (15-20 €). Bus fare: around 20 euros 1-way. Every 30 min or so from 6 a.m.

Information and online tickets available at: <http://www.lescarsairfrance.com>

Advice: Do NOT take the RER B (suburban metro) from CDG airport to central Paris if you have a lot of luggage and are unfamiliar with the RER. Theft is rampant on this line.

Reminder: You must arrive at the Citadines for the first group meeting at 5 p.m. If your flight is delayed, send an email to the RD or call the Citadines to leave a message.

4. WHAT TO PACK: SOME TIPS

Weather & clothing

Don't overpack! August is usually quite hot in Paris whereas January is cold. Provence is summer-like in September, so you'll need light clothing. But it will get chilly in Aix from December in Aix, so bring sweaters and clothing you can layer. Good walking shoes are a must! A rain jacket or light raincoat will also come in very handy.

French students tend to dress casually: jeans, t-shirts, etc. That said, they generally do not go to class wearing shorts, sweatsuits, flip-flops or anything resembling beachwear or pajamas. Women, especially in the south, often wear dresses and skirts and tend to be a bit more fashion-conscious or "chic" than students on a typical U.S. campus.

In Paris, Marseille and Aix, you'll find stores such as Monoprix, GAP, Zara, H&M, or C&A where you can find less expensive clothing. Sportswear can be found at chain stores like Go Sport or Decathlon. There are also used clothing stores, called dépôts-vente, and markets where you can easily pick up inexpensive items like gloves, hats, scarves, etc.

Bring a swimsuit and outdoor clothing, especially decent walking shoes with good treads for our hikes to the Sainte Victoire mountain and elsewhere in Provence!

When le mistral (northern wind) blows in Provence, it can get quite cold, but snow is unusual in Aix. Anything is possible, though, including occasional cold spells in January and February. If visitors from the U.S. come, they could also bring you some warmer clothes.

Essential items to pack :

- Two good photocopies of your passport (photo page) and student visa.
- Student card (from your home university and/or an ISIC).
- Insurance cards and information. (Claim forms are usually available online.)
- All prescription medication you are taking (enough for the entire semester).
- An electrical adaptor plug for your laptop, camera, etc. Electrical outlets are not the same in the U.S. and France. Adaptors are easily found in the U.S. and airport shops.
- Your U.S. bank debit card to withdraw cash. Advice: Inquire about ATM fees.
- A guidebook for France and/or Europe (e.g., Time Out, Lonely Planet). We have many guides in the WIA library in Aix that you can borrow during the semester.
- If you have a preferred and not-too-heavy grammar book, it might come in handy. You can easily purchase used dictionaries and other books in France.
- Extra memory cards for your digital camera.
- If you like to cook or bake, a few favorite recipes to share with your French hosts.
- If you opted for a homestay, a book of photos or a calendar of your city or region is always a nice gift and provides conversation topics in the early days and weeks.
- Contact lens solution or any other health or beauty product that you use on a regular basis. You'll find these products in France, of course, but brands may not be identical.

The Paris pre-session will enable you to

- ... get to know other WIA program participants.
- ... prepare you for certain practical and cultural aspects of living in France.
- ... meet with the Resident Director to finalize your housing in Aix.
- ... (re) discover museums and neighborhoods in Paris with an art historian.
- ... meet Wellesley alum and members of the Wellesley Club who live and work in France.

You will receive a detailed and updated schedule in your welcome packet upon your arrival at the Citadines. All activities during the pre-session take place in French and are mandatory.

ACCOMMODATIONS IN PARIS

We will stay at the Citadines-St German-des-Prés residence-hotel from August 20-28. It is ideally located on the left bank of the Seine, in between Notre-Dame and the Pont Neuf. Rooms have been booked from the night before your arrival date so that you can settle in immediately if you arrive on an early morning flight.

The Citadines chain, which exists all over France, is not a traditional hotel but more like a residence. You will share a room with another program participant and be expected to keep your space tidy and clean every day. All linens are provided, and if you need clean towels, you can help yourself from a centralized storage room.

The « studios » or rooms all have twin beds; a kitchenette with a micro-wave, small fridge and dishwasher; bathroom with a tub; and a separate toilet. All have free wireless access. There is a laundry room and a small exercise space. Web site: <http://www.citadines.com>

Breakfast is not included, and we suggest you take advantage of your kitchenettes and buy snacks and groceries at local supermarkets. We will do a practical walking tour of the area.

The following extra costs are not included and you will have to pay them yourself.

- Phone calls made from your room.
- Laundry. (There is a laundry room in the basement and you can purchase tokens.)
- Breakfast (12 euros)

The Director will provide more details about the Citadines at the first group meeting.

MEALS & TRANSPORTATION IN PARIS

If you sent your bank information to Wellesley College, you will receive the equivalent of 45 euros per day in your U.S. bank accounts prior to your departure from the U.S. for the duration of the Paris stay. This amount covers food and local transportation costs.

This guide contains addresses of cafés and restaurants in the St Germain neighborhood. There will be a few group meals during the week, including a small-group dinner with the RD.

You will receive a Pass Navigo for the metro and bus, valid from Monday to Monday. The card will not be “charged”; you will have to do this upon arrival. Approximate cost is 24 euros for the week. The public transportation system in Paris will be explained at the first group meeting, and you will receive some metro tickets for the first couple of days.

COMMUNICATION & MOBILE PHONES

Once in France, you can purchase calling cards that enable you to phone the U.S., but the most economical way to communicate with friends and family is via Skype.

You will have to purchase a cell phone in Paris. If you prefer to use a U.S. smartphone, you will still need to buy a SIM card that enables you to have a French phone number. It is essential to have a French phone number in France. It is difficult to give advice about cell phones, as prices change constantly, and much depends on your own habits and use. You will be able to discuss your needs with a vendor in an Orange store (www.orange.fr) in Paris.

As you will not have a bank account in France, you will not be able to sign a one-year phone contract (minimal length). It’s best to get a prepaid card that you simply recharge. Useful site: <http://www.meilleurmobil.fr>

6. SAFETY & SECURITY

Paris is a relatively safe city, but, as with any major metropolis, one must be vigilant and on one’s guard in certain areas and especially on public transportation. The greatest risk is theft and pick-pocketing, especially on the metro and in major tourist areas (Eiffel Tower, Sacré Cœur, the Louvre, etc.) This topic will be addressed at the first group meeting, and the Director will brief you on common-sense precautions to take and areas to avoid at night.

We also urge you to consult the U.S. State Department's web site which provides details and advice on safety issues and common scams in various countries and major cities, including Paris. <http://www.travel.state.gov>

Basic precautions:

- ❖ At the Citadines and in all hotels, always close and lock your door. Place any valuable items (e.g., jewelry, passport) in the small safe in the closet in your studio.
- ❖ Be careful when using an ATM (a DAB or distributeur automatique de billets) to withdraw cash with your U.S. card. Avoid withdrawing the maximum amount (usually 300-400 euros) and don't carry too much cash on you.
- ❖ Always be aware of your surroundings and people crowding you, especially on public transportation. In Paris, you will likely notice and be approached by groups of adolescents (often teenage girls) asking you to sign a petition of some sort. Make it clear that you're not interested. Pickpockets easily recognize tourists and visitors.
- ❖ If you have a backpack, always carry it in front of you on the metro, for example, or use a bag or purse with a strap that you wear across your body. Never put a wallet or card holder in your back pocket. Never place a bag or backpack on the ground or under a table – or a cell phone on a table - where they can be easily grabbed.
- ❖ When checking a map, whether on a device or a paper copy, step away from the middle of the sidewalk or street and try not to make yourself too obvious. If you walk straight ahead as if you know where you're going, you'll be less of a target.
- ❖ Note to women: Observe Parisian and local women and try to adopt their behaviors and facial expressions, especially in public spaces. Saying hello, smiling or making eye contact with someone will likely be interpreted as an invitation and may result in unwanted attention. If that happens, it's often best to simply change seats or cars.

7. GROUP ACTIVITIES & MUSEUM VISITS

Lucile Stellakis, our excellent guide in Paris, is an art historian trained at the Ecole du Louvre. She will conduct all of the daily museum and neighborhood tours in French. These visits are an important part of your linguistic and cultural immersion while in Paris. Lucile advises reading up on the sites in advance – and in French! - so that you can better understand and appreciate her tours which she makes as interactive as possible.

In addition to information sessions with the Director on specific topics, there will be several lectures/group discussions led by a Wellesley French faculty member. We will also attend a performance as well as a reception organized by the Wellesley Club of France. Rest assured, you will have some free time to explore Paris on your own and make your own discoveries!

You will receive in your welcome packet a copy of the weekly Officiel des Spectacles cultural guide, sold in newspaper kiosks in Paris every Wednesday. A bargain at 1 euro!

Aside from the well-known, «must-see» sites in Paris, past WIA students have enjoyed:

- Le Musée de Cluny (musée du Moyen-âge)

- Le Musée Carnavalet (histoire de Paris)
- L'Orangerie (Monet's water lily series)
- Le Musée Rodin
- Le Petit Palais et le Grand Palais
- Le Musée Marmottan (Monet's and other Impressionist works)
- L'Institut du Monde Arabe
- Le Musée des Arts Décoratifs
- Le Musée d'Art Moderne (peinture, photo, métro Iéna)
- Le Musée de la Mode et du Design
- Le Musée de l'Histoire de l'Immigration

Other sites and areas in Paris to visit (info and schedules in the Officiel or online):

- the Père Lachaise & Montparnasse cemeteries
- Luxembourg Gardens, Tuileries garden near the Louvre, le jardin des Plantes
- le Parc et la Cité des Sciences de la Villette
- le Marché aux Puces (samedi, dimanche et lundi, 9h à 19h, Porte de Clignancourt)
- la Défense & the Arche de la Défense (vue superbe jusqu'à la place de la Concorde !)
- open-air markets (marchés en plein air) – 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

8. PRATICAL INFORMATION - PARIS

Universities & Librairies

Even though you won't be studying in Paris, you might want to see Sciences-Po, the original Sorbonne (U. of Paris IV) and the beautiful Sainte-Geneviève library in the Latin Quarter (near the Panthéon) or the Bibliothèque Nationale de France in the Bercy area. The Sorbonne-Nouvelle (U of Paris III), created just after May 1968, is near the colorful and lively rue Mouffetard and Grande Mosquée, neighborhoods frequented by students in Paris.

Bookstores

You'll find all types of literary and academic books, textbooks, dictionaries, and used books at Gibert Jeune and Gibert Joseph, around the place Saint-Michel near the Citadines

One of the largest bookstores in major French cities is the FNAC chain where you can also purchase computer equipment, electronic devices, adaptors and buy tickets to concerts and cultural events. The closest ones to the Citadines are:

- 136, rue de Rennes (Métro : Montparnasse-Bienvenue)
- Forum des Halles (Métro : Les Halles)

U.S. Consulate /U.S. Embassy in Paris

<http://france.usembassy.gov>

2, avenue Gabriel, 75008

Tel: 01 43 12 22 22

See web site for services available to U.S. citizens, including how to replace a passport. We urge you to sign up for the Smart Traveler Enrollment Program (STEP) on the U.S. State Department web site. This can only be done by individuals and is your responsibility; there is no group registration. <https://step.state.gov>

Medical facilities & Emergency numbers

If you have minor ailments that don't require prescription medication (e.g., antibiotics), you should always go first to a pharmacy, marked with a big neon green cross. Pharmacists in France have solid medical training and can advise you on which over-the-counter medication is most appropriate for your symptoms. There are many pharmacies in all French cities.

If you need to see a doctor in Paris, you can go to the following medical centers without an appointment, but be prepared to wait your turn.

Institut Arthur Vernes 42, rue d'Assas, 75006 M° St-Placide ou Rennes

<http://www.institut-vernes.fr>

Centre de Santé Miromesnil 6, avenue César Caire, 75008 M° Miromesnil

<http://www.centre-medical-miromesnil.com/>

If you need assistance at the Citadines, you can call S.O.S. Médecins. 01 47 07 77 77

Equivalent of « 911 » in France: dial 15 from a landline or 112 from a cell phone.

Reminder: In case of an accident or medical emergency, contact the Director immediately. As your « primary emergency contact » in France, she will assist you.

Museums

Many museums are closed on Tuesday. Check the Officiel for schedules and prices. Don't forget to show your student card and ask if there is a student discount! There are also evening hours in certain museums, e.g., the Louvre, Musée d'Orsay and Sainte-Chapelle. Ask Lucile for advice on museums.

Restaurants in Paris recommended by previous WIA students

- Salon de Thé de la Mosquée de Paris (also a Moroccan restaurant)
39, rue Geoffrey St. Hilaire (5ème) Métro : Place Monge
- Little Breizh (Excellent crêpes, including organic!)
11, rue Grégoire de Tours (6ème) Métro : Odéon
- Chez Angelina (for its famous hot chocolate!)
226, Rue de Rivoli, près du Louvre (1er) Métro : Concorde
- La Palette
Opposite the Ecole des Beux-Arts. 43, rue de Seine (6ème). Five-min walk from Citadines !
- La Crêperie des Canettes
10, rue des Canettes (6^{ème})
- Au Sauvignon
Small & friendly wine bar and café well known to locals. 80, rue des Saints Pères (6^{ème})
- Chez Fernand (near Citadines)
9, rue Christine, 75006 Classic French dishes in a bistrot setting.

- L'As du Falafel (student favorite in the Marais & Jewish quarter)
34, rue des Rosiers, 75003 M° Saint-Paul

Supermarkets near the Citadines St. Germain :

- Carrefour Market, deux entrées : rue de Buci et rue de Seine
- Monoprix, 50, rue de Rennes (6^{ème}), à l'angle du Boulevard Saint-Germain
- Monoprix, 24, Boulevard Saint-Michel (6^{ème}), au coin de la rue Pierre Sarrazin

You will receive a neighborhood map with these places marked and we will do a walking tour of the area on the second day so that you can locate them.

Mobile phones

There are two Orange stores near the Citadines: on bd. Saint-Michel and 126, bd Saint-Germain where employees can assist you in choosing the best pre-paid calling plan for your needs. If you wish to use your iPhone, you will probably have to unblock it so that you can use it abroad and insert a French SIM card to have a French number. Look into this before leaving the U.S. You will need a French mobile number. No one will call you on an international number and all students must be reachable in France and have a phone.

Taxis

In theory, taxi drivers are required to go to the nearest taxi stand and wait their turn for customers. If you're near a train station, for example, and try to hail a cab on the street, it may not stop even though the green light on top indicates it's free.

Look for the nearest taxi stand (often near a bus or metro stop), indicated by a square blue sign with the word Taxi.

There are 3 different fares (A, B, C) depending on the destination, time of day, etc.

- Taxis G7 : 01 47 39 47 39
- Les Taxis Bleus: 01 49 36 10 10

Public transportation: RATP (metro & bus)

You will receive a Découverte pass-card in your welcome packet. It will be up to you to pay for the week (Mon to Sun) if you want the convenience of not having to buy metro tickets (a book or carnet of 10 tickets costs around 14€). A weekly ticket is 25€ for unlimited use.

The metro doesn't operate 24 hours a day. It runs later on weekends, but on weekdays it stops shortly after midnight: Check operating times on <http://www.ratp.fr>

Le Noctilien (night bus) operates late at night but only on major arteries, i.e., it doesn't stop everywhere. If you're out late at night, we strongly advise you to take a taxi home.

PRACTICAL INFORMATION - FRANCE

1. Calendar & Holidays

Keep in mind that school and university calendars, as well as holidays, differ in the U.S. and France. Note academic dates and try to encourage visitors to avoid coming during orientation, exam periods or at times when you will be busy and less available.

Public holidays in France are frequently linked to a historical event or an important date in the Catholic religion. If the actual date falls on a Thursday or a Tuesday, schools and businesses may be closed on Friday or Monday in order to offer an extended weekend (« faire le pont » en français). Public holidays include the following:

- November 1 All Saints Day (la Toussaint)
- November 11 World War I Armistice
- April 17 Easter Monday
- May 1 Fête du Travail (Labor Day)
- May 8 World War II Armistice

TELLING TIME & MAKING APPOINTMENTS

In France, time is usually indicated using the 24-hour « military system» as opposed to a.m. versus p.m., as in the U.S. In fact, these abbreviations don't exist in French.

- 1 a.m. = une heure (1h00) ou une heure du matin (less common)
- 1 p.m. = treize heures (13h00) ou une heure de l'après-midi (less common)
- 2 p.m. = quatorze heures (14h00)
- 3 p.m. = quinze heures (15h00)
- 4 p.m. = seize heures (16h00)

Watch your pronunciation! 16h (seize) vs. 6h (six) heures and 10h (dix) vs. 2h (deux) heures.

2. HEALTH MATTERS

IMPORTANT: Wellesley College and Wellesley-in-Aix do not have student health services and facilities abroad and cannot assure medical care. Students with specific needs, including mental health counseling, must consult local health care professionals and be prepared to pay for these services and request reimbursements.

Contact information is provided in the French section of this guide, and there is also a directory of English-speaking doctors in the Provence region on the U.S. Consulate-Marseille web site. WIA cannot guarantee immediate consultations or quality of care by specific health care professionals.

That said, there are excellent doctors of all kinds in France, and the overall health care system is considerably more affordable than in the U.S. It is also possible to call SOS Médecins at all hours; a 2-person team will make an emergency house call.

Note: All students should know their health insurance plans and policies and what is covered abroad. A visit to a general practitioner's office costs around 24 euros and must be paid in cash. Specialists charge more. As for counseling services, the hourly rate may vary from 100 to 120 euros per hour depending on the professional. All health services must be paid up front and reimbursement claims submitted to insurance companies afterwards.

Onsite staff can assist students in making doctors' appointments and steer them toward health care professionals in Aix who are familiar with U.S. programs and students. A list of local hospitals and practitioners seen by previous WIA students is included in the French section.

Advice: If you have any chronic illnesses or conditions (e.g., allergies) that require prescription medication or regular shots, bring a complete medical file with you. If you are taking prescription medication, you should bring enough to last you the entire semester or year if possible. If not, you should have a legible prescription or doctor's note specifying the kind or brand of medication you are taking and reasons for it. Keep in mind that brands differ from country to country, and you may not find the exact same medication in France.

Un peu de vocabulaire utile pour les consultations médicales :

▪ un docteur/un médecin	doctor
▪ une ordonnance	prescription
▪ un médicament	medication
▪ la pilule (du lendemain)	birth control pill (morning after)
▪ un cachet (d'aspirine)	pill, tablet
▪ un préservatif	condom (familier : une capote)
▪ les règles	(menstrual) period
▪ une consultation libre	walk-in visit
▪ une consultation à domicile	house call (Oui, cela se fait encore en France!)
▪ consultation sur rendez-vous	by appointment

If you go to the doctor's for any reason, he/she will give you a health form (une feuille de soins) that you will have to send to your insurance company in the U.S. when you request a reimbursement. The WIA program does not pay for health care or handle reimbursements.

For details about Wellesley's non-U.S. insurance policy, consult Wellesley Health Service,

<http://www.wellesley.edu/healthservice/insurance>

Medication: In addition to an adequate supply of prescription medication, you might want to bring saline solution if you wear contact lenses.

Reminder: Medication should never be mailed; it can be confiscated by customs officials.

French medical coverage: « la sécu »

The term "sécurité sociale" in French refers to health coverage and medical insurance, not retirement pensions! In order to be enrolled in a French university, you must have la sécu. WIA pays this mandatory fee (around 200 euros) required of all students in France.

In theory, this means you can be reimbursed for medical visits in France. In practice, the processing time is so long that by the time you are « in the system », the semester may already be over. The receipt that you receive along with your student i.d. card from AMU will nevertheless prove that this fee has been paid and should enable you to benefit from the same medical rates that the French pay.

4. PERSONAL SAFETY & WELL-BEING

There is no reason to feel less safe in France or Europe than in many major cities in the U.S. Statistics show that there is less violent crime and fewer incidents involving handguns in France than in the U.S. Students generally report feeling quite safe on a day-to-day basis in Paris and Aix, and the main risks are petty theft and women sometimes feeling “hassled” by men who seek to get their attention by making remarks or approaching them in public spaces.

The terrorist incidents and deaths that occurred in Paris in January 2015 (Charlie Hebdo journalists) and in November at the Bataclan concert hall and neighboring area were deeply shocking to everyone in France and the world. The national French anti-terrorist plan known as Vigipirate was already in effect before these tragedies; it was reinforced and security was greatly tightened afterwards. In fact, France remains on high alert.

We urge students to stay informed of world events and to regularly consult the U.S. State Department’s travel and worldwide alerts at <https://travel.state.gov>

The WIA Director sends updates via email as they become available. All students are expected to inform the Director via e-mail whenever they leave Aix and provide details (e.g., dates, travel companions, destinations). If anything occurs in France or elsewhere, they should contact the Director immediately to let her know they are okay. In turn, she communicates with Wellesley College officials and notifies them that all students are accounted for.

As the two largest cities in France, Paris and Marseille combine the positive and negative traits evident in most world cities: sketchy neighborhoods, pickpockets, various sorts of trafficking, tourist scams, etc. The main precaution is to always be aware and vigilant and avoid taking unnecessary risks. By comparison, Aix will seem quiet and « safer », but keep in mind that it attracts many tourists at certain times of the year and, as a student town, has a vibrant night life, i.e., it also has its share of pickpockets and unsavory characters.

Some common-sense precautions to take no matter where you are:

- ✓ Tell someone where you’re going if you travel or go out alone, especially at night.
- ✓ Avoid taking the metro or a night bus very late. After 11 p.m., take a taxi.
- ✓ Avoid walking home alone or in deserted streets and neighborhoods at night.
- ✓ Don’t rent a car or other motorized vehicles. Lack of familiarity with driving laws and behaviors, coupled with car theft in southern France, are a recipe for disaster.
- ✓ Never hitch-hike in France, even if you’re with someone else or are told it’s safe.
- ✓ Always hold your bag or backpack close to your body and don’t set it on the ground.
- ✓ Always ask where you are going if someone offers to take you somewhere outside of town or to places you don’t usually frequent (e.g., clubs), especially at night.
- ✓ Walk confidently and look straight ahead of you, as if you know where you’re going.
- ✓ Be sure to know how to call the police if necessary and explain a problem in French.
Number to call: 17 from a landline or 112 from a cell phone.
- ✓ Don’t get distracted by your cell phone (text messages, conversations) in public transportation or when walking on the street. It makes you an easier target.
- ✓ If you don’t want to attract unwanted attention in public spaces, speak French!

Sexually-transmitted diseases : le SIDA et les MST

As in other countries, there are people living with HIV (le VIH) or AIDS (le SIDA) in France. Information is available at: <http://www.sida-info-service.org> Sexually-transmitted diseases are known as MST (une maladie sexuellement transmissible) in French.

You may be surprised to see vending machines selling condoms in public places, including restaurant restrooms, metro stations, cinemas, etc. In France, this is viewed as a public health service; it is not intended to encourage certain behaviors but seen as a preventive measure. While it may be tempting to seek new experiences while abroad, it's important not to take unnecessary health risks. As a general rule, if you wouldn't do something in the U.S., it's not a good idea to do it in France or Europe.

5. DRUGS, ALCOHOL & FRENCH LAWS

As a legal adult in France and Europe (18 years or older), you are ultimately responsible for your actions and personal safety. The Director can assist you in medical emergencies but cannot make medical decisions, obtain confidential information or take legal action on your behalf. In the event of an incident or emergency requiring hospitalization, Wellesley College and your parents or legal guardians will immediately be contacted.

Wellesley College has an honor code that emphasizes students' personal responsibility, academic integrity, and concern for fellow students' well-being. Moderation and safety go hand-in-hand, especially when traveling and living abroad. Studies have shown that students abroad sometimes engage in activities or experiment in ways they wouldn't in their normal environment. It is crucial to exercise common sense and good judgment at all times.

As a legal adult, you are free to buy and consume alcoholic beverages in Europe and won't be asked for i.d. in a restaurant or bar. There is a law against public drunkenness and rowdiness in France, however, and the police are authorized to stop offenders and detain them in a police station until they are sober. Again, this is a public health and safety issue in France.

Be aware that France has some of the toughest drug laws in Europe. A violator's nationality is a moot point; you are subject to French laws while in France. Neither the U.S. Consulate nor Wellesley College can provide counsel or pay legal fees. Any willful violation of French laws or drug-related incidents will result in expulsion from the program.

If you are the victim of a crime while in France (e.g., theft, assault), you should immediately report it to the Director who will assist you. In keeping with the U.S. Clery Act, all such incidents must be reported to Wellesley College, but they are recorded anonymously.

6. ELECTRICAL OUTLETS & MISCELLANEOUS ISSUES

Voltage in France is 220. This means you will need an adaptor plug (un adaptateur) for your laptop and any U.S. appliances or electrical or electronic devices (e.g., hair dryer, camera). You can buy one at most airports or at a FNAC in France if you forget to pack one.

Since March 2015, all homes and businesses in France must be equipped with smoke detectors. Whether you opt for a homestay or a room in a student residence, there should be one in or very near your room. If there isn't one, you should notify the Director.

In theory, smoking is prohibited inside restaurants and in public buildings and spaces, and restaurant patrons can only smoke on outdoor terraces, for example. You will find that smoking remains less “stigmatized” in France than in the U.S., however, and that many young people continue to smoke. If you’re allergic to smoke, you should not hesitate to say so.

7. FRENCH PRESS : NEWSPAPERS & MAGAZINES

We urge all students to adopt the general French habit of watching the nightly news (“le 20 heures”) and keeping up with current events, even if you only read the front page of a major French newspaper online. The following dailies are the most frequently read:

- Le Monde (more or less equivalent to the New York Times)
- Le Figaro (conservative, right-leaning)
- Libération (liberal, more left-wing daily)

Weekly news magazines, i.e., akin to Time or Newsweek albeit more “politicized” are

- Le Point, L’Express (more right-wing views)
- L’Observateur (formerly the Nouvel Observateur, more left-wing)
- Courrier International (especially useful for International Relations & Political Science majors, topic-based articles from major world papers translated into French)

There are also regional papers which can be useful for cultural events, for example. WIA has a subscription to La Provence which has a weekly cultural guide.

8. TIPPING (le pourboire)

- Taxi: it is customary to give a tip of 1 or 2 euros for a short ride and a bit more for a larger fare or longer distance (for example, to go to an airport). No fixed percentage.
- Restaurant, bistro or café: a 15% tip is automatically included in France (and should be indicated on the menu), but many people leave small change or a few coins on the table or slightly more in a nice restaurant, especially if the service is very good.

9. WORK & INTERNSHIPS

As in the U.S., internships are highly coveted and competitive in France, partly because they are mandatory in certain business or professional schools. French students usually have to find their own internships, often via family friends or personal contacts. The WIA program does not have a list of pre-existing internships but staff can provide assistance.

There are strict rules and laws regarding student internships in France, notably the following:

- All internships require a signed contract (une convention de stage) which defines the terms and states the link with the student’s major or course of study. This contract is signed by the organization or company offering the internship; the student’s home institution (France or U.S.); the student; and, in some cases, an internship provider.
- By law, unpaid internships cannot exceed eight weeks. For longer periods, interns must receive some sort of compensation (une gratification), such as a meal or transportation stipend. No stipend is required if the duration is less than 8 weeks.

- To apply for an internship, you must submit a French-style résumé (un curriculum vitae) along with a cover letter (une lettre de motivation). WIA staff can assist you with this and provide model letters.

Tips on finding an internship in France:

- Talk to everyone you know: homestay hosts, professors, French friends, WIA staff. The more people who are aware, the better your chances of finding something.
- Seek feedback and advice on your CV and cover letter to someone familiar with internships in France. This is culture-specific, and U.S. tactics may not be effective.
- Don't delay! If you want a summer internship, you need to start looking in February.
- Take advantage of all available resources, starting with the web sites below. The L'Etudiant site allows you to search by type of internship, city, dates, etc.

<http://www.letudiant.fr/jobsstages.html>

<http://www.crous-aix-marseille.fr/emplois>

<http://www.topannonces.fr/annonces-offres-emploi-u299.html>

For Paris, you can also check the job ads in the FUSAC. www.fusac.fr

Students or dual nationals who hold an EU passport are allowed to work in France part-time (approximately 18 hours/week) without a work permit. As for non-EU students, only those who received a VLS-TS student visa may legally work part-time in France.

The employer must declare the student worker, specify the nature of the job and produce a contract that specifies working conditions and hours. A business that offers to hire you and pay you in cash is engaging in illegal behavior and taking a major risk. So are you.

If you are not an EU citizen and do not have a visa that allows you to work in France, you can always earn extra money by babysitting, picking up French children after school, or giving private English lessons. Rates vary from 8 to 15 euros per hour.

In Aix, the English bookstore Book-in-Bar in the old center has a bulletin board where people looking for weekly English conversation or someone to pick up their children after school post ads. Check it out! These are great student “jobs” and enable you to meet new people. You can also post your own ad to give English lessons or create your own group.

MOST FREQUENTLY-ASKED QUESTIONS ... AND RESPONSES!

1) How can I best prepare myself for my experience in France and Aix?

Read! Start with the GAP. In particular, the section on academics, the French university system and relevant vocabulary will facilitate your comprehension during information sessions in Paris and Aix. Also, try to read or listen to something in French every day via Internet, e.g., front page of Le Monde, so you'll be informed of current events and major topics in France; an occasional radio or program (online) such as TV5. The more you practice your French before arriving, the easier it will be to adapt at the outset.

2) How much money should I bring and in what form?

Have about 100 euros in cash upon arrival for expenses in the first couple of days. A taxi to the Citadines from the airport will cost 50 euros. You can use an ATM thereafter to withdraw money. There are ATMs all over Paris. Check with your U.S. bank about fees.

You will need to purchase a cell phone or French SIM card once in Paris. This will likely be your biggest personal expense during the semester. Plan on 30-40 euros/month. It is difficult to estimate exact costs, as this depends on your habits and use. The following web site is a good place to start: <http://www.meilleurmobilite.fr>

During the semester, you will receive in your U.S. bank account a monthly stipend (mainly for lunches). A Wifi connection and laundry are included in the homestay. Students in independent housing receive more to pay for all food and laundry expenses. The program provides all students with a local bus pass for the semester/year. Your main personal expenses will be books, school supplies, cell phone, travel and entertainment.

3) What will the first two weeks in Aix be like?

There will be a full schedule of orientation events and sessions in Aix. All are mandatory. Included are visits of Aix and our partner institutions, sessions focusing specifically on academic aspects (e.g., course selection and registration), individual advising meetings with the RD, and some social activities. You will also take a diagnostic French language test to determine your level according to the European Common Framework; this will also help determine course choices. There will also be a day trip to Marseille.

The first two weeks in Aix are also an important time to get to know your French homestay hosts, a crucial part of the cultural adaptation process. For that reason, we strongly advise against friends or parents visiting you during that time. You will be busy settling in and being as “immersed” as possible in French. Keep in mind that this process is physically and mentally tiring, so it’s important to be able to relax and decompress, too.

4) What can I expect from my homestay hosts? What will they expect of me?

We will discuss this in greater detail in Paris. Remember that adapting to a different lifestyle in another language is a process; don’t expect to feel completely “at home” on Day 1. Your relationship with your hosts will evolve as you get to know one another; this takes time, effort and openness. Be patient. And be yourself!

You will receive a checklist of some topics, e.g., meal times, keys, household routine, to go over with your hosts in the first couple of days. The aim is to facilitate your conversation about any “house rules” and ensure that expectations are clear to everyone. Don’t be afraid to say you don’t understand something and ask for clarification – no one expects you to know the word for every household appliance or to understand slang!

Remember, communication is key!

As a general rule, don’t expect to be treated like an “adopted child”. Rather, think of yourself as a “privileged guest” in your hosts’ home, at least at the outset. Your relations will evolve over time and depend on your own efforts as well as theirs. If you want them to take an interest in you, then show interest in their lives and family. The majority of hosts have hosted previous WIA or U.S. students; they will therefore understand your desire to go out, spend time with friends, travel on weekends, etc. At the same time, their home is not a hotel, and they are not tour guides. Mutual respect and sensitivity will go a long way toward building a good relationship and developing ties with family members. Relax and enjoy the process!

5) Is it possible to change housing?

Yes, but there is a process and no changes will be made in the first 2 weeks. Remember that it takes time to adapt to a new routine and feel comfortable in an unfamiliar environment, especially in another language. Discuss any issues that may arise with the Director. Miscommunication is normal and often linked to cultural differences or behaviors that you may need help analyzing and interpreting. There is no need to feel embarrassed; rather, look at it as a learning opportunity. If the issue can't be resolved, a change can be arranged, and assistance will be provided.

Note: All housing is arranged by WIA and included in the program cost. Students are not permitted to make their own arrangements or change housing without the Director's knowledge or approval. No reimbursements will be given.

6) When and how will I select and register for my classes?

This, too, is a process that takes time and perseverance. During the first week in Aix, you will have ample time to consult course evaluations completed by previous WIA students and meet with the Director to discuss your academic goals and identify possible courses. You will have two weeks in which to decide on your final choices after attending all the courses that interest you and consulting the Director and your major adviser in the U.S.

You will need to attend all classes that interest you from Week 1 and keep attending them until you have narrowed your choices down to 4 or 5 and have a workable schedule. You should start out with five classes so that you can drop one later in the event of an unexpected change. The level (first-, second- or third-year) will depend on your background knowledge of the topic, your French skills and your major. All advice is individualized.

The WIA program handles actual university and course registration, i.e., you will not go through the exact same process as French students who have less leeway than you do. All procedures will be thoroughly explained in Aix. Pas de panique!

7) Can I drop and add courses after the first two weeks?

Per Wellesley and WIA policy, you must maintain a 4-unit load all semester. It's not possible to add a course if you have missed the first 2-3 weeks, especially at Sciences Po where the semester only lasts 11 weeks. If you start out with five courses, you may drop a course up until the last week of classes. These are WIA policies. Students at AMU and Sciences Po are not allowed to drop courses once registration is over.

All communication with administrators in WIA partner institutions must go through the WIA Director. Students are not allowed to negotiate exam dates or make arrangements directly with professors, and attempts to do so may have negative consequences.

If you have questions, make an appointment with the Director with whom you will meet monthly to discuss your classes and progress. Remember that tutorial assistance is also available. It's normal to be disconcerted by the French system and prescriptive rules for academic papers, so take advantage of all available resources and support early on!

8) What else should I know about academics?

The GAP outlines key differences between French and U.S. higher education and includes a useful vocabulary list in French. Read these sections carefully and learn the vocabulary! Two sessions will be devoted to this topic during the first week in Aix.

International students directly enrolled at AMU or Sciences Po don't receive "special treatment" and are generally expected to do the same work as their French classmates and to adhere to all official dates (exams, vacations). Be prepared for this and take it into consideration when planning visits from family and friends or making travel arrangements. No make-up exams or assignments are given for unexcused absences and there is no such thing as "extra credit" in France.

9) What kind of assistance is available in Aix?

All kinds – that's why Wellesley has onsite staff in Aix! The Director is not only an academic advisor but also the primary emergency contact and a resource person in other areas. She can also refer you to other resource people who can assist you.

In the event of a medical or other crisis, confidentiality is respected, in keeping with the Family Educational Right to Privacy Act (FERPA) in the U.S. Your parents are only contacted in medical or safety emergencies or in the unlikely event of a legal problem. If, for some reason, your parents or legal guardians contact the Director, you will be informed.

10) What's the best way to meet people and make French friends?

Join a club or group of some kind linked to a personal interest: sports, music, theatre group, volunteering, etc. Check out existing student groups and clubs at AMU and Sciences Po, many of which are free. Consult the Petit Futé guide to Aix that you will receive upon your arrival.

Make this effort within your first month in Aix. The longer you wait, the less likely it is to happen. There are lists of places and activities recommended by previous WIA participants in the Aix section of this guide. Highlight the ones that appeal to you and check them out!

A final word: Keep in mind that the more you travel on weekends and hang out with other U.S. students in Aix (and speak English), the harder it will be to make French friends and the less progress you will make in French. As a rule, French students don't go away every weekend or travel much outside of university vacation periods; they tend to socialize with their friends and spend time with family on weekends. When in France...

III. LE « SAVOIR-VIVRE » IN FRANCE

This commonly-heard term is difficult to translate in English and combines notions of courtesy and politeness, cultural practices and implicit “codes” familiar to the French, and a certain “art of living” of which the French are proud. Certain expectations or behaviors are also part of child-rearing, especially in more traditional French families. Pamela Druckerman has written several recent books on this topic that make for interesting reading.

You will no doubt notice that the French are proud of their history, traditions, culture and patrimoine. Conversation is also considered an “art” in France and remains an essential part of daily life. Awareness of appropriate behaviors or language usages that make up une bonne éducation or une personne bien élevée (i.e., well-raised or well-mannered) will help facilitate your integration and interactions with French hosts and others.

A few examples and some tips:

- ✚ If you are invited to dinner in someone else’s home, bring a gift such as flowers or nice chocolates. Your gesture will be noticed and much appreciated.
- ✚ Make it a habit to say « Bonjour, Monsieur » or « Merci, Madame » when speaking to a professor, employee, office worker or any adult, especially before making a request. This is one of the first etiquette lessons that French children learn, and it can make a difference in how the person reacts and how helpful he/she is.
- ✚ In a restaurant or café, one attracts a waiter’s attention by trying to make eye contact or raising one’s hand and waving slightly. If necessary, the appropriate verbal cue is Madame or Monsieur or S’il vous plait.
- ✚ Service in the U.S. is known for being quick, efficient, friendly and based on customer satisfaction. This is not always the case in France where speed and efficiency may matter less than conversational exchange, talking about the quality of products, giving advice or suggestions, allowing a customer to taste, etc. Remember, patience is a virtue! Moreover, you may come to appreciate such exchanges when you are on the receiving end.
- ✚ When you encounter a situation or behavior that you don’t understand, try to keep a sense of humor and avoid being defensive, judgmental or critical. It is normal to feel unsettled by attitudes or reactions that seem « bizarre » in a new culture. Ask someone who knows French culture well to help you interpret or understand what occurred.
- ✚ North American women often describe French and southern European men as “sexist” or “macho” and are surprised when men approach them in public spaces or comment on their appearance (e.g., Vous êtes très jolie, Mademoiselle.). In particular, non-Caucasian women may attract attention, especially when speaking another language. In most cases, the best tactic is to avoid eye contact, ignore comments and keep walking. Smiling or responding in any way may be viewed as encouragement. If the behavior persists, a firm response such as Ca suffit! or Laissez-moi tranquille! often does the trick. Observe French women, their behaviors and facial expressions, especially on public transportation (e.g., the metro in Paris).
- ✚ Political correctness is often described as an “American phenomenon” in France. You may find that attitudes toward diversity and difference are expressed more openly or directly in France, especially in smaller, less diverse places than Paris, Marseille and major cities. You may hear comments about individuals or groups that would be deemed insensitive and unacceptable elsewhere. How you choose to react is up to you and may be conditioned by the specific context and individuals involved. If you feel strongly about a topic or if a conversation makes you uncomfortable, don't hesitate to say that you disagree or don't find the joke funny and change the topic.

- ✚ Asking a person where he/she comes from is not considered impolite or necessarily “racist” in France. Indeed, the French are often curious about people's origins. There are also regional identities in France. French people may identify themselves as Breton, Norman, Corsican, Parisian, etc. and you will find that not all residents of Aix are “Aixois” or even from Provence. Further, most people are familiar with the notion of the U.S. as a “melting pot”. In short, don't be surprised if you are asked: “Where do you come from?” or “Where is your family from originally?”

Keep in mind that your perspective will likely evolve over the course of your stay as you meet and interact with host nationals, French and other international students, etc. What may seem strange or difficult to understand in the beginning may bring great satisfaction, be a source of real learning and personal enrichment, and even contribute to your future career.

ON THE ROLE OF FOOD & MEALS IN FRANCE

As you know, food, cooking and meals are central to life in France and one of the main topics of conversation. If you're living with French hosts or are invited to dinner at someone's house, the following information may be useful:

- Evening meals are an important part of family life: everyone talks about his or her day, discusses current events, and, in some cases, families watch the news together. It may take time to feel comfortable participating in conversations, but try to make an effort and don't wait to be “called on”. Asking questions is often a good strategy.
- Differences in eating habits – meal times, number of courses, ways of using utensils or serving and eating certain foods may be the source of puzzlement but also amusement! Observe what your hosts or other guests do, and try to follow their lead. Serve others, e.g., water, before you serve yourself.
- Meal times are generally later than in the United States. Dinner may be served between 7:30 and 9:00 pm, and many restaurants don't open until 8 pm. If you are invited to dinner at someone's house, arriving more than 15 minutes late without letting the hosts know is considered rude.
- If you are in a homestay, you should be aware of dinner hours and be on time. Unless you have a class that ends late or have indicated you'll be late, your hosts will wait for you before starting to eat.
- Don't hesitate to offer to help set or clear the table. Je peux vous aider à mettre le couvert ? / à débarrasser ? Complimenting the cook is always appreciated!
- During meals with family or friends, the French love to converse, interrupt each other, joke or tease, etc. The livelier the conversation, the better! (See chapter on “La conversation” in Raymonde Carroll's Evidences invisibles). Try to participate, even if you don't understand everything.

- The French don't eat or leave food in their bedrooms. Use the kitchen when at home, and don't leave dirty dishes in other rooms. It will not be appreciated.

POLITENESS, VERBAL & NON-VERBAL COMMUNICATION

Politeness is expressed differently depending on the language. In France, it's important to pay attention to register - formal, colloquial or informal (i.e., slang or argot) - when talking to different people. Factors like age, status, and type or depth of relationship matter. For example, one does not use slang with professors in France; it's considered inappropriate, if not rude. Social norms in France may seem very formal to you, especially at the outset, but this will become easier and more natural with time and practice.

- In the U.S. it is common to say "Thank you very much." to sincerely thank someone, while in France people more likely will say "Merci mille fois" or "C'est gentil" or "C'est très aimable à vous". A simple « merci » might seem discourteous to some people.
- The French don't systematically respond "You're welcome" (Je vous en prie. ou Il n'y a pas de quoi.) but may instead smile or nod in thanks (non-verbal cue). People also tend to respond Je vous en prie. / Je t'en prie. more often than De rien. (informal register).
- Prior to a transaction or when entering an office, one generally says "Bonjour Madame/Monsieur" before asking a question or explaining the reason for one's visit. If you already know the person or have dealt with him/her before, you may add: Vous allez bien?
- Never say « Salut! » or « Ouais » to a professor, office employee, storekeeper, etc. That is informal language and will be considered as disrespectful. Pay careful attention to the ways in which you express yourself, and try to use the appropriate register.
- It is essential to mind your language in emails and communication with professors. You should address them as Monsieur or Madame, be polite and refrain from asking for an immediate reply, and sign Cordialement. Have a French person read your email before sending it to a professor or person of authority, especially if you are requesting a favor.
- People don't smile as much in France as in the U.S., especially to strangers. A smile implies familiarity and may be interpreted as an invitation or sign of interest (especially between men and women). Don't be surprised if a smile or direct eye contact generates an invitation.
- The French readily correct children, young people – and non-French people trying to communicate in French! Don't be surprised if restaurant employees, storekeepers or others correct your French or even respond in English. They may simply assume you're a tourist, especially in Paris and Provence which draw many North American and British visitors. Take it as a sign of eagerness to help or interest, not a critique of your French. Don't hesitate to say that you are a student living in Aix and prefer to speak French. Most people will be pleased and switch to French if you ask them to.
- In general, it's best to use the tu form to address people your own age and younger and vous with adults unless they suggest using tu (Tu peux me dire tu. or Tu peux me tutoyer.) In the south of France, people tend to be less formal and suggest using tu more quickly than in Paris, but you shouldn't assume this. Some French hosts may invite students to call them by their first names, others not. Keep in mind individual differences and preferences.

IV. ACADEMICS : GENERAL INFORMATION

1. Academic Calendar: 2016-2017

If you are registered at both Sciences-Po and AMU, you must adhere to both calendars.

	SCIENCES PO	AMU
Start date: 2 nd semester	Monday, January 9	Monday, January 16
Winter Vacation	February 18 - 26 (all classes, including WIA)
Spring Vacation	April 15-23 (all classes, including WIA)
Exams: 2 nd semester	April 24 – May 6	May 2 – 13

Note: Exam schedules are not available until 2 weeks or so before official exam dates, and some exams may be scheduled on Saturday. Dates are not negotiable, and you are expected to take the same exams under the same conditions as your French peers. Do not make travel plans during these periods. No make-up exams will be given, and the consequence of missing an exam without a valid excuse (e.g., medical or family emergency of which the WIA director is aware) is a zero and a possible F in the course.

1. HIGHER EDUCATION & CULTURAL DIFFERENCES

Adapting to a different university system and academic standards can be challenging and, at times, frustrating. Learning conditions and teaching approaches vary across cultures, and, like your predecessors in the WIA program, you are likely to be disconcerted, confused and baffled at times. Vive la différence! Remember that you have many resource people to turn to as you navigate your way through the French university system. If you need help or guidance, just ask! Below are some realities for which you should be prepared:

- Tuition costs (frais de scolarité) are much lower in France than in the U.S. and higher education may seem nearly free. In fact, higher education is heavily subsidized by the French Ministry of Education and taxpayers, thereby keeping the actual cost reasonably low for students, especially in public institutions like AMU.
- As a result, French universities are not wealthy and have far fewer resources, facilities, and services than higher education institutions in the U.S. Don't expect the kind of athletic facilities or dining halls found in the U.S. or libraries and computer facilities that are open late or on weekends. Generally speaking, leave your U.S. expectations behind and be prepared to adapt. This is the point of a direct enrollment program, i.e., the opportunity to experience a different philosophy and approach to higher education.

- The mission of universities in France is first and foremost intellectual: to transmit (through teaching) and expand knowledge (through research). In general, French students do not rely on a university to provide them with a social life or a plethora of services and extra-curricular activities although the latter do exist and are usually managed by a Bureau des Eleves (BDE) often staffed by student volunteers.
- The teaching approach and relations with professors in France will undoubtedly seem very “traditional” or formal to you: heavy reliance on lectures (cours magistraux or CM), with students listening and taking notes (often by hand) and few opportunities for discussion or dialogue. Even in smaller group classes or sections (travaux dirigés or TD), there may be little discussion and class time may be largely devoted to student oral presentations, with or without Power Point.
- Many AMU classes meet only once a week for 3 to 4 hours. This may well be the most difficult aspect to adjust to and may be quite tiring and require concentration, especially at the outset. At the same time, it will allow you to measure your progress, notably your listening comprehension and note-taking skills during the semester.
- In France, students at the undergraduate level are expected to be able to work independently, with minimal supervision, weekly assignments, frequent quizzes, etc. In fact, it is rare for a detailed syllabus to be distributed; you may receive only a brief outline of weekly course topics and a bibliography. In most cases, it will be up to you to inquire about key books to read (if you lack background knowledge) and to set up a reading schedule, review your notes regularly and fill in blanks on your own or with the help of French classmates.
- Professors may recommend books or make articles, readings and PowerPoint presentations available through the Amétice platform, but they won’t check on your progress or comprehension of the material outside of exams or major assignments. In sum, you must take charge of your own learning.
- Grading: most French professors do not assign weekly homework at the university level; this is a hallmark of secondary school in France. Your final grade may be based on only two assignments or exams, both of which may occur late in the semester. Advice: You should avoid taking courses at AMU in which the final grade is based entirely on a single comprehensive exam at the end of the semester.
- Most professors in France do not have an office or hold office hours (heures de permanence) and may not provide an email address. Student-professor relationships tend may seem more distant than in the U.S. The professor’s main role is to teach; it’s up to the student to learn. This doesn’t mean you shouldn’t approach them, however.
- Remember that help is available. Take advantage of all resources: WIA and other tutorial assistance offered by AMU or Sciences Po, individual professors who can recommend key books on a particular topic, your French classmates who can provide class notes, the WIA Director who can also offer guidance and tips, etc.

ACADEMIC POLICIES & GUIDELINES

Failure to comply with the policies and rules below may have a negative impact on your grades and result in your not receiving academic credit from Wellesley for courses in Aix.

- You are required to take all exams in your courses and do the same work as your French peers. If you miss a final exam, you may be marked absent and receive a grade of Défaillant for the course, in which case you will not receive credit from Wellesley. There are no make-up exams except in the case of a medical or family emergency.
- Do not make plans to leave Aix before the end of official exam periods. Exam schedules will not be posted until about two weeks before the designated exam period. Exam dates and conditions are set by the administration and non-negotiable. International students do not receive “special treatment” and, in theory, professors are not permitted to administer exams in advance or schedule make-up exams.
Advice: Plan to return to Aix at least two days prior to your first scheduled exam.
- Always have your AMU student i.d. card with you on exam day. (Note: Part-time students at Sciences Po don't receive student i.d. cards.) You may not be allowed to take the exam without your student card. No make-up exam will be given. If you lose your AMU student card during the semester, notify WIA staff; you'll have to pay 10 euros to have it replaced.
- Exam and program dates take precedence over an internship or job opportunity in the U.S. and personal travel. No early departures are allowed other than for medical or family emergencies. The WIA Director must be informed and will officially notify AMU or Sciences Po as well as Wellesley College and students' home institutions.
- In keeping with Wellesley College's academic policies, you may withdraw from a course within the first five weeks without a notation on the WIA transcript. After that period, a grade of W will appear. No withdrawals are allowed after the course ends or just before or during the exam period. You should speak to the WIA Director before dropping a course, and you must put the request in writing. All students must maintain a four-course load throughout the semester.

2. AIX-MARSEILLE UNIVERSITÉ (AMU) :

In January 2012, three separate universities in Aix and Marseille merged to become Aix-Marseille Université or AMU: the largest French-speaking university in the world, with over 70,000 students in all of its branch campuses combined!

AMU also welcomes over 10,000 international students (and more than 60 nationalities) to its satellite campuses. Where WIA students are concerned, the main ones are:

- ✿ Schuman: Aix campus and home of the Faculté des Arts, Lettres, Langues et Sciences Humaines (ALLSH). Informally called the “Fac de Lettres” by many people.
- ✿ Montperrin: close to the Schuman campus, one of the Faculté des Sciences sites.
- ✿ MMSH : Maison Méditerranéenne des Sciences de l'Homme, located on the west side of Aix and accessible by bus. Site of many Anthropology and Ancient History courses.
- ✿ Saint-Charles-Marseille: located next to the Gare Saint-Charles in Marseille. Site of some history and literature courses, as well as numerous science courses (neurosciences in particular).

Note: The Schuman campus in Aix is undergoing major renovations that will continue through 2017. You will visit the various sites where classes are held.

Wellesley-in-Aix has an agreement with the following divisions within AMU

Faculté des Arts, Langues, Lettres et Sciences Humaines (ALLSH)
Faculté des Sciences (starting in Fall 2016).

These are the only Facultés where you may take classes and receive credit from Wellesley.

The Faculté des ALLSH is divided into 5 different sections :

- Lettres et arts (Humanities and arts)
- Langues, langages et cultures (Languages, Linguistics, World Cultures)
- Psychologie et sciences de l'éducation (Psychology and Education)
- Humanités, sciences historiques et sociales (Humanities, History, Social Sciences)
- Géographie, aménagement, environnement (Geography, Environmental Studies)

Courses that do not earn academic or transfer credit from Wellesley College

- Studio arts (arts plastiques): Non-credit courses in painting, drawing, pottery, etc. are available outside the university and considered an extracurricular activity for which you may be reimbursed from the individual cultural allowance offered by WIA.
- Economics or Management courses offered by the Faculté d'économie et gestion with which WIA does not have an agreement.
- English or American studies, i.e., courses taught in English. Students may take Comparative Literature courses offered in Lettres Modernes, taught in French.
- Foreign Languages (other than French), unless this is a second major, in which case the course must be approved by your department. Language courses in French are less interactive than in the U.S. Levels and pedagogical approaches are different, which can lead to difficulties in determining equivalencies and transferring credits.

Prescribed curriculum vs. Taking courses « à la carte »

Unlike in the U.S. university system, students in France choose their major in the first year and follow a pre-established curriculum consisting of many required courses and limited elective courses. There are no “distribution” or “general education” requirements, as these are covered at the high school level which offers a broader curriculum. In sum, university is synonymous with a specialty or major starting in the first year. French students are free to change disciplines or majors after their first year but must start over again.

Unlike French students, you will be able to choose courses in different disciplines and at different levels (1st, 2nd and 3rd year), that is, “à la carte”, as you will not be working toward a French degree. Your choices will depend on your major(s), your previous knowledge of the subject, and your level of French. Final course choices will be made in Aix with the guidance and approval of the WIA Director and after consulting your academic advisors in the U.S.

Undergraduate degree in France : « Licence »

The undergraduate degree in France is generally obtained after three years of study and divided by year: Licence 1, Licence 2 and Licence 3. Course levels are similar to Grades I, II and III at Wellesley College, or 100-, 200- and 300-level courses in many U.S. universities and colleges.

L1 = introductory courses

L2 = courses that assume some previous knowledge (basic pre-requisites)

L3 = advanced or more specialized courses that assume background knowledge

It is possible to take L3 courses (i.e., highest level) and many previous WIA participants have done so. They tend to be specialized and demanding in terms of workload and professors' expectations. Note: If you have never taken a course in English in a specific discipline and do not have a B2 level in French, it is not advisable to take L3 courses.

Structure of « Licence » courses

Depending on the discipline or even year, there may be a single weekly class lasting 3 to 4 hours or 2 separate mandatory sessions per week (on the same or different days):

- Lecture (cours magistral ou CM): often held in an amphithéâtre
- Smaller section (travaux dirigés ou TD): may consist of student oral presentations related to course topics or analyses of documents, group size may be 10 to 30 students.

Whatever the case, there may be two different professors who work somewhat independently or who each teach one half of the semester. In courses where there is a CM and TD, you must complete all work for both in order to receive credit.

Note: Certain psychology or anthropology courses are taught by a “team” of professors or guest lecturers that change frequently. This may be disconcerting and also problematic in terms of grading and evaluation. As a general rule, it is best to avoid this type of course.

Credits: “ECTS” and U.S. equivalents

The European Credit Transfer System (ECTS) enables students from different European countries to easily transfer credits to their home institutions from another EU university. The number of ECTS granted is essentially based on the number of hours per course.

For courses at AMU: 6 ECTS = 1 Wellesley unit
9 ECTS = 1.5 Wellesley units

For courses at Sciences Po: one 2-hour cours magistral (CM) = 0.5 Wellesley unit

All WIA students are required to register for a minimum of 4 units per semester. This usually means four courses unless you opt for ½-credit classes (i.e., fewer than 6 ECTS)

Course selection and registration at AMU

In Aix you will meet individually with the WIA Director to discuss your academic goals, make preliminary course choices and put together a schedule that enables you to attend at least 7-8 classes in the first two weeks. By process of elimination, you will reduce the choices to five by the end of the second week. You should also communicate with your academic advisors in the U.S. during that period. The WIA Director can assist with translating course outlines in English if your advisors request more detailed information.

Step 1: Administrative registration (inscription administrative)

This process will be handled by WIA staff once we have received photocopies of your passports and visa pages in Paris which will be forwarded to the WIA office in Aix. This will enable AMU to issue student cards which may take from 10 days to two weeks.

Note: If you lose your student card during the semester, you must pay 10€ to replace it.

Step 2: Academic registration (inscription pédagogique)

Once you have selected your courses, WIA staff will prepare a special AMU form called a fiche pédagogique for you to sign and will submit all forms in a single batch. This is essential in order for you to be officially enrolled for exams and obtain grades for AMU classes.

Post-registration course changes / Adding and Dropping

- Course registration procedures are not the same as for full-time, degree-seeking French students. When in doubt, always ask the WIA Director who acts as the intermediary with AMU offices and contacts and is familiar with WIA policies.
- AMU does not have an Add/Drop policy, and French students are not allowed to make changes once registration is final. According to Wellesley College and WIA policies, however, you may withdraw from a course up until the final week of the semester if you have a 5-course load or if extenuating circumstances warrant a reduced courseload. If you drop a course before the 5th week, it will not appear on your WIA transcript. After the 5th week, there will be a “W” on your WIA transcript. Requests to withdraw from a course must be made in writing to the WIA Director.
- All communication with the administration at AMU must go through the WIA Director. Failure to keep the Director informed or to comply with academic policies may result in grades of F on your transcript.

Reminder: All students must maintain a 4-unit course load per WIA policy.

Amétice

This platform used at AMU will enable you to access your AMU email account, course documents and information and databases (JSTOR, Cairn). Some AMU faculty use it for all course information, others less so. It's up to you to inquire or verify at the first class session.

Transcripts & Credit Transfer

Note to Wellesley students: All courses related to language, French or Francophone literature or cultures and French linguistics will most likely count toward requirements for the French major at Wellesley. Students from other universities should double-check to find out which specific courses may apply to a French major or minor.

Please note! You should avoid taking courses that closely resemble classes already taken in the U.S.. If you are uncertain, send an email to your advisor, dean or head of department.

If you need to submit an English translation of a course description or outline to seek approval for credit transfer, speak to the WIA Director who will translate the document.

4. FRENCH GRADING SYSTEM & CONVERSION SCALE

You will receive numerical French grades in all university courses based on a system of 1 to 20. Grades of 17 and above are rare in the French system, which is essentially Pass/Fail. The minimum passing grade is 10 which translates into a C+ per the conversion scale below, approved by Wellesley College.

At Wellesley, a C is the minimum grade required for credit transfer. Some U.S. colleges and universities may award credit for a C-. A WIA transcript will be sent to your home institution with course titles translated into English and the French grade converted into a U.S. grade.

WIA grade equivalencies

France	United States
18 à 20	A+
15 à 17	A
14	A-
13	B+
12	B
11	B-
10	C+
9	C	Wellesley credit awarded
<hr/>
8	C-	No credit
7	D+
6	D

Credit Transfer

You will not receive your final grades before leaving France. It generally takes 4 weeks or so after final exams for grades to arrive at the WIA office. The WIA Director then converts grades and sends the transcripts directly to the Office of International Study at Wellesley. OIS forwards them to non-Wellesley student's home institutions (Registrar's office).

Transfer Credit Policy

The Wellesley College Registrar's Office handles credit earned in the Wellesley-in-Aix program like all other transfer work: Credit is granted for a grade of "C" or better and course work is recorded on the official transcript with a notation of "TR" or transfer credit. Units count toward the degree but have no effect on the GPA.

A separate Wellesley-in-Aix transcript indicating course titles and grades received is also sent to the Registrar at Wellesley College and may be requested by students applying to graduate schools. Other sending institutions may acknowledge and record credit earned in the WIA program according to their own credit transfer policies. External students should check with their home schools.

5. OTHER ACADEMIC INFORMATION

Visits of Sciences Po and the AMU Schuman campus will occur during the first week in Aix.

Tutoring and academic support

French universities and specific academic departments increasingly offer support in the form of peer tutoring, especially for first-year French students who also need assistance or advice. Ask your French professors about available resources and take advantage of them!

WIA also hires a program tutor, who is available by appointment to help students with the methodology of French academic writing, oral presentations, etc. You will meet her in Aix, and her contact information and availabilities will be posted at the Center. You are responsible to contact her directly requesting her help for various assignments.

6. WIA COURSES

Each semester, WIA offers two to three courses reserved for program students. These are either one-credit classes that meet three hours per week or, for students taking lecture classes at Sciences Po, a parallel course that enables students to earn an extra half-credit.

WIA courses offered in Spring 2017:

1) Méthodologie & Expression écrite: Professor Elodie Burle-Errecade

Tentative schedule: Tuesday 2 – 5 pm at Tavan Center

The aim of this course is to reinforce academic writing skills and introduce students to the types of assignments common in French universities: commentaire composé (in literature), commentaire de texte (history, philosophy), dissertation (literature, social sciences); l'exposé oral ou écrit (written or oral presentation).

It is required for students who test below a B2 level on the standardized French test (TEF) that will be administered in Paris in January. It is optional for students with a B2 level or better.

2) Traduction: Professor to be announced

Tentative schedule: Monday 9:30 – 12:30 until mid-February and Thursday 1 to 4 pm from February to late April.

This course focuses mainly on grammatical translation and translation of literary texts but may include other text types depending on students' majors. It also aims at reinforcing French language skills by comparing French to English, with an emphasis on common errors made by native English speakers in French. It is generally accepted for French major credit.

Note to Wellesley students: This 200-level course fulfills requirements for the French major.

3) Sciences Po parallel course – Professor Sophie Doudet

Tentative schedule: Monday 2 – 4 pm (six sessions during the semester)

This course combines independent research on a topic related to specific courses taken at Sciences Po (culminating in a 10-page paper in French) and group sessions focusing on current events in France and Europe, with oral presentations on specific themes (politics, economics, etc.) and articles selected by students. Students earn ½ credit for this 12-hour parallel course which represents 50% of the final grade for lecture courses taken at Sciences Po that meet 22 hours per semester.

4) Group tutorial in history (depending on enrollments)

Professor Catherine Atlan, a specialist in history who teaches two spring courses in Marseille on African history (Licence 1) and Comparative Decolonization: Europe-Africa (Licence 2) occasionally teaches a 12-hour support class for WIA students enrolled in her regular course. There must be at least 5 students. An additional ½ credit is awarded.

Attendance and Absences

Attendance is mandatory in all WIA classes and any absences must be justified. You are expected to take your studies seriously while in France; traveling and entertaining visitors are not a legitimate excuse for missing classes. You should not assume that French university professors won't notice absences; indeed, they are often more aware of non-French students.

Unexcused absences, particularly due to weekend travel, extended vacations and visitors, will be penalized in WIA courses and result in grade reductions. There are no make-up assignments or exams for unexcused absences.

Per AMU and IEP policies, unless you have a medical certificate or doctor's note, you will receive a zero if you miss a scheduled exam. No make-up exams are given.

7. ENSURING YOUR ACADEMIC SUCCESS IN AIX

The advice below, which includes tips from previous WIA participants, is intended to help you succeed in France and also avoid unpleasant surprises at the end of the semester or after your return to the U.S.

- Review and rewrite or complete your class notes after each class. This will help you progress in French and force you to verify facts and fill in any blanks (e.g., dates, names) that you didn't catch in lectures and are expected to know.
- Set up your own reading schedule from the outset, especially in the absence of a detailed syllabus, and stick to it. This is a student responsibility in France.
- Read at least two books cited in the bibliography or recommended by the professor. If you're not sure which ones are most useful, ask – at the start of the semester!
- Remember to check the library at Tavan for course books, especially if a class was taken by previous WIA students. There are also neighborhood libraries in addition to the ones at AMU and Sciences Po. You can also order books on amazon.fr and have them sent to the Tavan center.

- Organize study groups with classmates and invite French students to join. This is a great way to get to know your French peers as well.
- Students from the U.S. often get the impression that classes are "easier" and professors are less demanding in France due to lack of weekly assignments or frequent feedback. C'est une erreur! The roles and responsibilities of professors and students in France are different. In France, the expectation is that students are able to take charge of their learning (se prendre en charge), motivate themselves and show interest in the topic.
- If you are having trouble with classes or feeling frustrated or discouraged, make an appointment with the WIA Director. Don't wait until the end of the semester!

Documenting your coursework: le dossier de cours

Academic departments or advisors in your home institution may request more detailed information about your classes in France. You should not expect to receive a detailed syllabus from French university professors; in some cases, there may only be a one-page outline of weekly topics and a bibliography – at best. It is therefore essential that you keep track in writing of course topics, assignments, books read, etc. on a regular basis.

The following dossier de cours, which is crucial for all courses in which you do not receive a detailed syllabus or course description, is designed for that purpose. You will receive a Word version via email and should revise it on a weekly basis. The WIA Director may ask to see it at your monthly individual check-in meeting. You will be expected to hand in these dossiers for each non-WIA course at the end of the semester; they will be kept in your file in Aix. If you need a translation to request transfer credit once back in the U.S., you will have to contact the WIA Director to request one. It will be based on your dossier de cours. In sum, it is your responsibility to document all coursework.

ACADEMIC ADVICE FROM PREVIOUS WIA STUDENTS

General

- Forget all your expectations and start over with an open mind. It'll save you a lot of frustration.
- Don't get too frustrated by the disorganization of the university. Don't worry!
- Don't expect things to be exact. Things always change, so be flexible.
- It's okay to be confused and not understand everything. The professors tend to be sympathetic with international students.
- Don't feel defeated because getting used to French classes will be difficult.
- Erase any expectations you have from your American experiences and take really good notes.
- Don't be afraid to approach the teachers – they might seem cold or intimidating but they are really quite nice.
- Talk to students in your classes!

On selecting courses:

- Choose classes based on the books you'll read. Do all your reading.
- Be proactive. If you don't like a class at the beginning, try others until you find one that work.
- Don't be afraid of L3 classes (at AMU) if you have prior experience with the subject.
- Try to take classes where you are interested in or even know a bit about the subject.
- Test upper-level classes and take them; first-year classes are a very low level sometimes and it can be frustrating.
- Start with five classes so you can drop one.
- Don't be afraid to take classes with no other Americans; it really forces you to reach out and make French friends or at least friendly acquaintances.

On study strategies:

- Rewrite or go through your notes each week. Attend every class.
- Study your notes a little bit each week after class. It is a hard habit to keep up, but if you do, you will be very happy you did come final exam time.
- Talk to the tutor or your professors about assignments; the expectations for essays are really different so you have to be prepared to learn a new way of thinking which may be frustrating.
- Talk with the students in class as much as possible because that's where the learning is at AMU.
- Figure out Amétice ASAP and make sure you're following in class. Amétice helps because some courses have the lectures online.
- Start studying early. It takes so much longer to read notes/books in French.
- In courses where memorization of facts is important, use a secondary source to study. Read the recommended texts and borrow notes from other students, especially French ones!
- Keep up with classes throughout the semester: reread your notes, look up background info.
- Be present in the class and talk to your professor if you didn't understand something.
- Don't stress out too much and try to find study partners, especially non-Americans!
- You can do it. Take the classes seriously and don't come in confident. Do the work early so you don't get any surprises in the end...

- If you have to do an exposé with a French student, have confidence in yourself.
- Take good notes. That is what you will be tested on.
- Talk to other students in your class!! They often have a better idea of what's going on or, if they don't, know what to read, what's on the exam, if there's a class next week – at least you're in the same boat! Plus, they might become a friend!
- Don't be intimidated by the other students in your class. You can learn as much from them as from your professor. Also, go to lectures.
- Invest time in your classes. It's easy not to, but the classes I cared the most about were the ones I did the most work for, and the ones I ended up liking the most.

8. EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES & STUDENT LIFE IN AIX

Athletics

AMU's Service universitaire d'activités physiques et sportives or SUAPS offers a plethora of classes and activities: tennis, swimming, fitness classes, hiking, climbing, etc. and there is a Bureau des sports at AMU. If you're athletic and looking to meet French students, start there. In addition, most activities are free!

How to sign up

Be proactive! Registration usually occurs at the beginning of the semester and it's possible you won't yet have your student i.d., card yet, but go anyway and explain to the instructor that you are an international exchange student and your card is being processed. Have a copy of your AMU acceptance letter with you; that should be sufficient proof. Even if the class is allegedly full, go to the first one anyway and you may be able to get in.

You may be asked to provide a medical certificate before the first class depending on the sport. This can be done for free near AMU. Talk to the Student Life Coordinator who can provide information and assist you.

Student Groups & Organizations

There are numerous student groups of all kinds at AMU. Consult the web site for information and lists under Vie étudiante, go in person to the Bureau de la Vie Etudiante or Bureau des Eleves and make inquiries, and talk to French students in your classes to find out more. Be proactive! There are lots of opportunities if you look for them.

Théâtre Antoine Vitez

Located on the AMU-Schuman campus, this theatre stages productions by professional regional companies and theater students at AMU. Occasional theater workshops and "Before and After" sessions (discussions about the various performances) are also organized.

9. WIA AND SCIENCES-PO AIX (IEP)

Created in 1956, the IEP or “Sciences Po” in Aix is one of nine Political Studies Institutes along with Bordeaux, Grenoble, Lille, Lyon, Paris, Rennes, Strasbourg and Toulouse.

Sciences Po - Aix enrolls nearly 2,000 undergraduates, including over 200 international students. The regular curriculum for French students is a five-year one, and all French students are expected to go abroad during their third year, either to study or do an internship. The primary disciplines at Sciences Po are: Economics and Finance, International Relations, Political and Social Sciences; and Civil Service.

International students may enroll full-time in a one-year certificate program (CEP) or as part-time students. Most WIA students fall in the latter category, as they take courses elsewhere.

Registration at Sciences Po

In the past, Sciences Po-Aix was intended for political science, international relations and economics majors, but the curriculum, like the student body, has become more diversified over the years. There are courses in English and even other languages. WIA students must take all their courses in French. If you have at least a B2 level in French and there is a course that interests you, talk to the WIA Director.

All students must complete a pre-registration form that the WIA Director will submit to Sciences Po at the start of the semester. At the end of the first two weeks, you will confirm your class choices with the WIA Director and receive an email from Sciences Po with instructions for final online registration.

Course offerings, instruction and grading methods at Sciences-Po

WIA students generally enroll in the Programme d'Etudes Politiques Semestriel (PEPS) – Choix libre, meaning they may take up to two lecture courses (Cours magistral or CM) which meet once a week for two hours. Other types of courses - seminars, conferences de méthode, language classes - are open only to full-time students and not an option.

A list of course offerings is often not posted on the web site or finalized just before the start of classes. The WIA Director sends the course list to students via email as soon as it becomes available. The schedule may change up until the first week of classes.

Note to Spring 2017 students: Due to class size limits, only students majoring in political science, global studies, international relations and economics will be allowed to take two courses at Sciences Po. All others may take only one.

Lecture courses meet once a week for two hours (over 11 weeks) and earn ½ credit per Wellesley’s academic standards. These CM are rarely interactive or discussion-based. Students are expected to do outside research and independent reading to master course content. Personal motivation and effort, as well as self-discipline, are crucial to succeed.

In most CM courses, the preferred method of evaluation is a final oral exam administered by the professor individually at the end of the semester. The exam schedule is available one or two weeks prior to the exam period, and the ordre de passage is also determined by Sciences Po. Students must adhere to the schedule and take their exam on the designated day at the time specified. No make-up exams are given. Failure to appear may result in a zero.

Occasionally, a one-hour written exam is scheduled, especially in larger classes. Whether oral or written, this grade is the only one in CM courses and therefore constitutes the final course grade at Sciences Po. A transcript is sent to WIA indicating grades.

The parallel WIA course for students enrolled at Sciences Po represents the other ½ credit awarded, and 50% of the final grade. The WIA Director calculates the average after receiving grades from Sciences Po and the WIA professor.

Note: All WIA students enrolled for the first time in a Sciences Po course are required to take the parallel WIA course for an additional ½ credit.

10. LIBRARIES

1) The « BU » (Bibliothèque Universitaire)

Located on the Schuman campus, the BU is open from 8:30 am to 8pm on weekdays, and from 9am to 1pm on Saturdays (closed Sundays). There is wifi access.

<http://bu.univ-amu.fr/bu-schuman-lsh>

How to register at the BU: Go to the BU with your IZLY student card. The reception desk is at the entrance on your left.

2) « BS » (Bibliothèque de Section)

Each academic department has its own library. You can consult books on site but also borrow them. Check with the department or your professors.

3) MMSH Library

The Maison Méditerranéenne des Sciences de l'Homme or MMSH houses the anthropology department, and some history courses may also be offered there. It is to the west of Aix, not on the Schuman campus. You will find a wide selection of works in the humanities: anthropology, history, sociology, popular culture, as well as many works on the Mediterranean area. It is a very pleasant place to study.

4) Méjanès Library

“La Méjanès” is the largest public library in Aix and is part of the Cité du Livre, conveniently located behind the main bus sand near the Pavillon Noir. www.citedulivre-aix.com

The Cité also includes a cinema that shows classic films and there are numerous lectures and other events throughout the year. It is a major cultural center in Aix. Check it out!

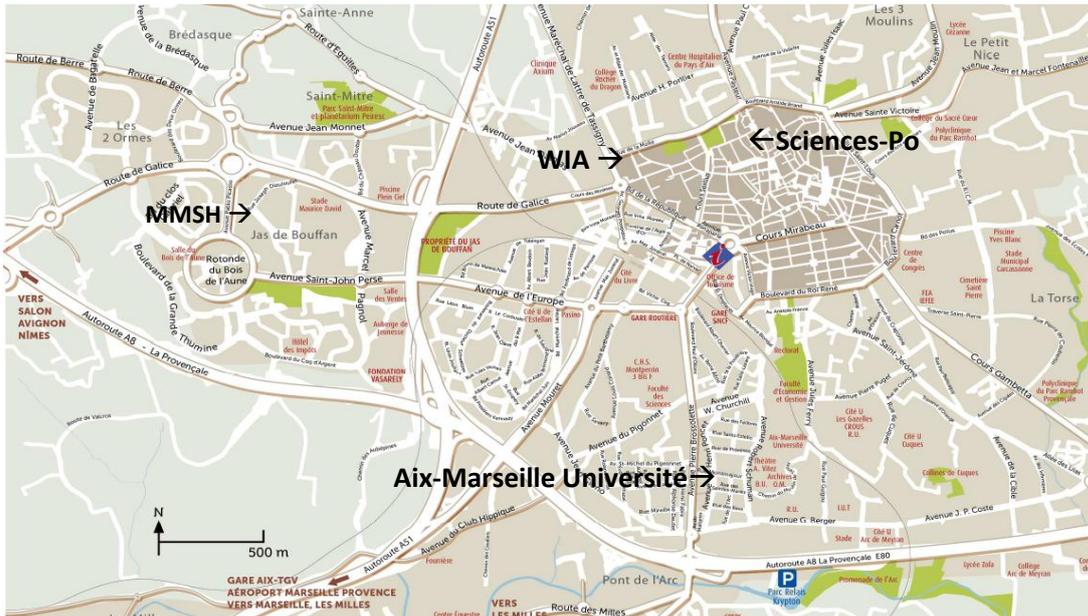

5) Sciences Po Library

For students enrolled at Sciences Po.

Don't forget to check out the WIA library at Tavan. Though small, it includes books used in frequently taken courses or donated by previous students. If there are several students taking a course with required readings, the program may purchase a key reference book that will be put on reserve. Otherwise, books are considered a personal expense.

V. AIX-EN-PROVENCE

1. WELLESLEY-IN-AIX CENTER

The Wellesley Center (Centre Tavan) is located about a 10-minute walk from both the Rotonde (city center) and Sciences Po and approximately 20 minutes on foot from Aix-Marseille University. It is often faster to walk than to take a bus if there is a change involved.

Centre Wellesley in Aix
16 rue Emile Tavan
13100 Aix-en-Provence
Tél : 04 42 26 35 52

WIA Center hours: Monday - Friday, 10am to 6pm, closed on weekends.

Le Centre Tavan

The WIA Center is both an administrative center, classroom and meeting or study space. A kitchen is available to students at lunchtime, and you may also eat in the outdoor patio area in nice weather. In keeping with the WIA immersion goal, it is a French-speaking environment and not an entertainment space or hangout for watching videos or U.S. series in English.

Upon your arrival, you will receive two keys to Tavan, to open the main gate and the downstairs door (patio-side) to the center. It is forbidden to lend your keys to a third party or duplicate them. If you lose them you must immediately notify WIA staff, and you will have to pay for a new set.

Uses of Tavan:

- Students may keep food in the fridge and cook, but must clean up and do the dishes. We ask that you eat in the kitchen or on the patio, not in the lounge area.
- The small library is in the lounge area.
- You may receive mail and packages at the Center, using the address below.
- There are 3 computers and printers available as well as wifi indoors and on the patio.
- There is a small DVD collection of French films that you may borrow or watch.

☞ If your parents or friends send you packages, tell them to write on the package:

« EFFETS PERSONNELS USAGES SANS VALEUR COMMERCIALE »

(Used personal items of no commercial value)

Otherwise you may have to pay customs taxes which can be hefty.

What you cannot do at Tavan:

- speak English!

After two reminders from WIA staff to speak French, you will be asked to leave the center. We take the French language pledge seriously and enforce it during group activities as well. Failure to comply with this rule may result in a warning and advisors in the U.S. being notified.

- sleep over, take naps or use it as you would your private space
- go there on weekends (unless if there is an organized WIA activity)
- consume alcohol except when there is a reception organized by the program

2. THE CITY

Aix has a population of about 145,000, including 40,000 students, mainly enrolled at AMU. It is located inland, 30 minutes north of Marseille and the Mediterranean coast. The population is less diverse than in Marseille which has drawn many immigrants throughout history, especially from North Africa.

Aix consists of many small streets in the city center, many boutiques and shops, outdoor cafés and restaurants, a “cultural quarter”, and a few museums. It is also known for its colorful markets that attract many tourists, especially in the summer. It is a city rich in history and architecture and was the original capital of Provence, now known as the PACA (Provence, Alpes Côte d’Azur) region.

For a "virtual" tour, click on the Tourist office link: Discover Aix

Climate and weather in Aix

Provence has a temperate climate and is generally sunny in the fall and spring and very hot in summer. It can be cold in winter, albeit not as frigid as Boston or New England!

3. SAFETY & SECURITY

Overall, Aix is a safe city and most students feel comfortable walking everywhere although one should always be aware of one's surroundings late at night and avoid deserted areas or parks, for example. As in other cities, the main problem is theft, including pickpocketing and bike theft. It's always best to walk with someone or in groups at night and, after midnight, to take a taxi. There's a taxi stand at the Rotonde or you can call one.

- WIA is not the only U.S. program in Aix, and tourists and international students may be particular targets, especially when speaking English in public. The more you speak French, the less attention you will draw to yourself – and the more likely you are to meet locals!
- Neighborhoods to avoid at night include public parks which may be deserted or attract unsavory characters, e.g., the parc Jourdan, la Torse and certain zones or neighborhoods west and north of the city center. We will talk about this during the introduction to Aix on the first day.
- Note to women: you may find southern men even more "clingy" or apt to make verbal comments than in Paris. The topic of gender relations and strategies (verbal and nonverbal) for minimizing feeling hassled or being bothered in public spaces will be addressed on site.

Important reminder: If you are a victim of theft, assault or have any concerns, you should contact the WIA Director and make an appointment to discuss the incident. Crimes should be reported to the police and must also be reported to Wellesley College. It is important to warn other program participants of at-risk areas, incidents, possible scams, etc. Your safety and the safety of others is everyone's concern, and Wellesley College and the WIA program take this matter seriously. Assistance and counseling are available, both on site and in the U.S.

4. HOUSING IN AIX

In Paris, you will meet individually with the WIA Director to discuss your housing request. Every effort is made to honor students' first choice. Homestay placements will be confirmed once all individual meetings have taken place, and all students will receive an email with their hosts' name and some basic information.

Naturally, not all French families are alike despite some common characteristics, notably the desire to host a student from the WIA program. Nearly all have prior experience hosting international students, particularly from U.S. programs. All families have been vetted by the WIA Director who has visited their homes and explained the program goals and expectations.

When it comes to homestays, it is risky to generalize, as each family has its specific characteristics and habits. A session will be devoted to living with French hosts in Paris.

➤ Homestay

Homestay hosts have been selected and are looking forward to meeting you in Aix! They will come to the WIA center on the day of your arrival in Aix after the group meeting. Keep in mind that no situation is perfect, and that all of your "criteria" may not be met. Some factors, e.g. allergies, dietary restrictions, are given the highest priority when placements are made. Others, such as proximity to the city center (or to AMU) or a private bathroom are secondary.

The term "family" may have strong connotations, hence the term "hosts". There are all kinds of hosts: couples with children of different ages, retired couples, women with or without children, etc. They are sincerely interested in welcoming a student, exchanging, and sharing their life and culture. In sum, this is not a mere financial arrangement, and their home is not a hotel. Remember that you are a "privileged" guest and treat their home with respect.

Try not to compare your respective situations. Each one has advantages and perhaps a couple of drawbacks. Stay focused on what's important: interaction with hosts and family members and the opportunity to improve your French, learn about life in France and maybe even build a lifelong relationship. Keep a positive attitude and a sense of humor!

No changes will be made in the first two weeks. It takes time to adjust to a new environment and someone else's routine and habits as well as to get to know people. Some hosts may seem more formal than others at first, and the presence of children still living at home also has an impact on meal hours, house rules, etc. Your relationship will also evolve over time as you get to know one another better and adjust to each others' schedules and habits.

In all cases, you will have a private room and wifi access. As for meals, hosts provide breakfast food but students usually fend for themselves in the morning due to different schedules. Dinner times vary and may be anywhere from 7 pm (but not before!) to 8:30 pm.

Spending a semester living with French hosts is an interesting experience and is often cited by students as a highlight of their sojourn. There can be challenges, and linguistic or cultural misunderstandings are normal. Your hosts will see you as adults and respect your privacy and desire to go out with friends, travel on weekends, etc. Try not to take offense if they correct your French or ask you questions; they're not necessarily prying but may simply be trying to get to know you and also help you progress in French.

When in doubt, ask questions and politely ask if you can use the kitchen to bake something or watch a DVD or invite a friend over to study, for example. Don't expect to be able to invite weekend or overnight guests in your room. You should advise friends to book Airbnb accommodations, an inexpensive hotel or a youth hostel. If your hosts tell you that you can have occasional guests, consider it a privilege and offer a gift for their hospitality.

You and your hosts will receive a "checklist" of some points to go over in the first couple of days to facilitate communication and make sure that you know how to lock doors and use appliances and also discuss how best to communicate if you're late coming home for dinner or decide to stay overnight at a friend's. In our experience, the more expectations are clear from the outset, the more comfortable everyone is likely to feel. Try not to stress and don't be afraid to bring up topics and express yourself. WIA staff can help you if you need some language "coaching".

➤ Rossini Residence Hall

This is a private residence for students in the city center and operates more like an apartment building than a dorm in the U.S. The building is secure, and all residents must use a device to enter both the main gate and a code to access the residence part. There are also two staff members who live on site, and copies of the keys at the WIA center in case of a problem.

The single rooms are called "studios" because they are self-contained; each one has basic furniture and also a private shower/toilet/sink and a kitchen alcove with a small fridge and two burners for cooking simple meals. The WIA program has installed a wifi connection and provides all linens (sheets, towels ...), dishes and cooking utensils, and small appliances such as a microwave and coffee maker. There are coin-operated washing machines and a laundromat around the corner, as well as supermarkets a short walk away.

Nearly all residents of the Rossini are French students enrolled in various institutions or programs in Aix, and many come from other cities or regions. In the last few years, WIA students have been the only residents from the U.S. There is an advantage in living alongside French peers, but keep in mind that this is not an American-style dorm where students leave their doors open and friends wander in and out to hang out. If you want to meet your fellow residents, it's up to you to make an effort. It's also possible to organize activities or events in the common room which has a ping-pong table. Talk to the Rossini staff and plan an event!

➤ WIA apartment rentals

Due to decreased demand, this option is by request and availability is very limited. There is a studio apartment on the east side of Aix attached to a retired couple's home but with a separate, private entrance. Arrangements can also be made if two WIA students wish to share a two-room apartment. For safety reasons, we avoid housing students alone in an apartment intended to be shared, except in unusual circumstances.

All apartments rented by WIA are furnished and equipped, as is the case with the Rossini. Occupants are entirely responsible for maintaining and cleaning the apartments and must buy their own supplies (e.g., toilet paper, cleaning products) from their monthly allowance. In the event of a major problem or emergency, such as a damaged lock, electrical malfunction, plumbing problem or water leaks, students must notify WIA staff immediately.

Per an agreement with the owners, apartments are inspected monthly by WIA staff to ensure that they are clean and everything works properly. If the apartments are not deemed sufficiently clean, a second visit is scheduled within a week and, if there is little or no improvement, the occupants must pay to have someone clean the apartment. The fee is 30 euros per person; the WIA program will deduct this fee from students' monthly allowance.

Living in an apartment allows greater independence and freedom but also comes with responsibilities, including respecting other residents in the building who may not tolerate certain behaviors. Moreover, the main drawback of living with another WIA student is the temptation to speak English which can impede your progress in French. This is why we urge students living in apartments to sign up with the Bienvenue en Famille aux Etudiants Etrangers association which matches them with French hosts who occasionally invite them.

5. HEALTH & MEDICAL MATTERS

The program does not offer free health services for students, unlike on many U.S. campuses; this doesn't exist in French universities. This is why you are required to have health insurance that covers you while abroad and also includes repatriation in the event of a major emergency.

The French health care system is very good and reasonably priced because heavily subsidized. Pharmacists are very well-trained in France and can recommend over-the-counter medication and remedies for most minor ailments (e.g., cold symptoms, allergies). French people generally turn to a pharmacist first; he/she may recommend seeing a doctor depending on the symptoms and whether antibiotics or other prescription medication is required.

If you need to see a doctor, you can either go to an office during walk-in hours (see addresses provided) and wait your turn or, if you prefer, make an appointment. If it's a specialist, you will need an appointment. WIA staff can assist you if necessary. In either case, the doctor will give you a form or feuille de soins and possibly a prescription (une ordonnance). You must then send this documentation directly to your insurance company in the U.S. The program does not handle medical reimbursements or pay medical costs; this is a student responsibility.

- A consultation with a General Practitioner or médecin généraliste costs 23 euros, and a specialist at least 50 euros. You will be asked to pay directly at the end of the appointment. In some cases, only cash is accepted.
- SOS Médecins, a service that sends medical practitioners out on "house calls" in emergencies (especially late at night and on weekends when doctors' offices or clinics may be closed), costs about 100 euros.

6. GROUP ACTIVITIES & TRIPS ORGANIZED BY WIA

The program organizes several one-day outings and one weekend trip each semester. You will receive a detailed program in Aix. The destinations vary from one semester to the next, but we do our best to choose places that might not be easily accessible by train or that are on the list of UNESCO's World Heritage sites in France, of which there are many.

Recent trips have included:

- ❖ Port of Cassis: a hike, boat cruise or kayaking in the calanques
- ❖ Hike to the top of the Sainte Victoire mountain immortalized by Cézanne
- ❖ Luberon region: hill town of Gordes, ochre cliffs in Roussillon, the beautiful Sénanque Abbey.
- ❖ Avignon and its Palais des Papes and les Baux-de-Provence
- ❖ Arles, with its Roman sites and the nearby Camargue region
- ❖ Pont du Gard Roman aqueduct & Nîmes, another roman city
- ❖ Porquerolles Island – end-of-year hike, beach
- ❖ Fall weekend trip to Lyon; spring trip to Montpellier & the Camargue region

Twice a semester, we also take students to the Grand Théâtre de Provence in Aix for a classical or other music concert, a dance performance or other production.

These events are an integral part of the cultural program and enable you to discover the natural beauty and major sites in Provence, one of the most visited regions in France.

No refunds are given if you choose not to participate in WIA-organized group outings and cultural events.

Note: For insurance-related reasons, we cannot include visiting friends or family members in these outings which are open to students of the program only.

VI. PRACTICAL INFORMATION - AIX

Upon arrival in Aix, the program will lend all students a copy of Le Petit Futé city guide which you can consult during the semester. It contains all the information you need to discover and enjoy the city!

1. TRAVELING OUTSIDE AIX

All students are required to inform the WIA Director in writing when they leave Aix for the weekend or during a school break and provide details on departure and return dates, destinations, travel companions, etc. This is not an attempt to invade your privacy but rather a safety and security issue. The Director is your primary emergency contact person in Aix.

- In case of an emergency (including one involving your family in the U.S. or elsewhere), we may need to contact you or be able to tell your parents when you will be back in Aix and where you are if, for some reason, they are unable to reach you. It's normal for parents to worry, especially if they hear something disturbing in the news.

- In the event of a geopolitical crisis, terrorist attack, natural catastrophe or other major incident, the WIA Director and staff must ascertain that all students are accounted for and safe and communicate with Wellesley College and students' home universities. When the Charlie Hebdo attacks occurred in Paris, some parents contacted the Director via email or phone to make sure everyone was okay.

Failure to notify WIA staff of your absences and whereabouts may result in Wellesley College or your home university being notified.

The WIA Director also sends the group an email prior to an expected absence from Aix and indicates who the emergency contact person is during that time.

2. MONEY & FINANCES

How much money you spend will depend largely on your financial situation, habits and travel plans during the semester. Personal expenses include books, phone costs and your social life. The monthly allowance you receive each month from WIA/Wellesley in your US bank accounts is sufficient to cover your lunches and daily needs in Aix if you try to live like a typical French student, e.g., eating lunch in student cafeterias, not traveling every weekend.

You can use your U.S. debit card anywhere in Europe to withdraw money. Make sure the Visa or Mastercard logo is shown on the ATM, called a DAB (distributeur automatique de billets) in France. Check with your bank about fees when using your debit card abroad.

A few money-saving tips:

- In cafés, prices may vary according to time of day and whether you sit or stand. Ordering a drink on an outdoor terrace at midnight will cost more than standing at the counter inside the café in mid-afternoon. Cafés also tend to be pricier in tourist areas.
- A balanced meal in a university cafeteria (Resto U or RU) costs around 3 euros. Even eating there twice a week will enable you to save money for a weekly restaurant lunch.
- A full-price movie ticket costs 10 euros or so, but with a student card you will pay 7 euros. If you purchase a Cinétoile card in Aix for 21 euros, you will only pay 6.10€!
- Always ask if there is a student discount (une réduction étudiants) when visiting a museum or purchasing a ticket. Sometimes museums are free for students.

If you lose your credit/bank card

- ✓ Call your bank's emergency number to stop payment immediately. Only the card holder can do this, so make sure you can access the bank's phone number quickly. For example you can send yourself an email entitled ICE (in case of emergency), or use Google Drive.
- ✓ Go to the nearest police station to report the theft or loss. You may need an official police report in order to get another credit card.

WIA STIPENDS: MONTHLY ALLOWANCE & CULTURAL ACTIVITIES

You will receive a monthly stipend for lunches and other expenses which will be deposited directly into your account in the U.S. by Wellesley College. The amounts are as follows:

- 530€ per month for students living at the Rossini or in an apartment
- 330€ per month for students in homestays (with 7 evening meals per week)

In addition, you may be reimbursed up to € 200 per semester for individual cultural activities of your choosing: dance or cooking classes, museum visits in France, a sports club membership, etc. The Student Life Coordinator will reimburse you, but you must provide a receipt (un reçu) or invoice. Types of activities reimbursed will be explained in Aix.

Note: Personal travel expenses and restaurant meals are not reimbursed. The only exception is an excursion organized by Sciences Po or AMU that includes French students.

3. VOLONTEER & COMMUNITY SERVICE OPPORTUNITIES

Volunteering (le bénévolat) on a regular basis is a great way to meet French people while feeling useful. If you're interested, talk to the Student Life Coordinator. Do this early on in the semester; the longer you wait, the less likely you are to do it.

- Pays d'Aix Natation Masters Sprint group (for swimmers!)
- Aix City Ballet for dance classes.
- Théâtre du Jeu de Paume
- Visit the Fondation Vasarely (contemporary art)

4. LEISURE ACTIVITIES, CLUBS, ETC.

How to find a club or organization

- In September, via the ASSOGORA event on the Cours Mirabeau. Clubs and organizations set up stands, distribute pamphlets and offer demonstrations.
- A directory of associations of all kinds in Aix is available at the WIA center.
- Consult your Petit Futé – Aix guide for other suggestions and ideas.

BFEE : Bienvenue en Famille aux Etudiants étrangers

For students in independent living, this association matches you with French hosts who wish to invite international students to their home for occasional meals or suggest an outing or activity. We urge students not living in homestays to take advantage of this opportunity! It costs around 15€ to join and you can be reimbursed from your individual cultural stipend.

Jacquou le Croquant, 2 rue l'Aumône Vieille. French country cuisine: duck, foie gras, etc.

Juste en Face, 6 rue de la Verrerie. Mediterranean specialities in a nice setting

La Chimère Café, 15, rue Brueys : sophisticated cuisine and ambiance

La Maison des Fondues, rue de la Verrerie : a bit expensive, but great food

O'Zen-Le Passage, across from Cézanne movie theater. Lunch buffet 19€, all you can eat.

Pizza Capri, at various locations in Aix. A must-try!

La Table marocaine, 10 rue Constantin. Considered the best Moroccan restaurant in Aix.

The Bagel Store, rue de la Glacière (behind Palais de Justice). Delicious!

Heureux comme Alexandre, 37 rue des Tanneurs. For the fondues!

Cafeism, across from Sciences Po, very popular with students!

6. CINEMAS

La carte « Cinétoile » :

This 22-euro card entitles holders to reduced-price movie tickets. You can order it online or get one in person at the Cézanne cinema.

There are four cinemas in Aix, Le Cézanne (9 screens, films often dubbed in French), Le Renoir (3 screens, movies in original language with French subtitles), Le Mazarin (3 screens, movies with French subtitles) and l'Institut de l'Image at the Cité du Livre which shows classic films and holds festivals.  3, avenue Saint-Jérôme
 3, rue Lapierre (à côté du Rossini)

A load costs 4-5 euros. Dryers: 1 euro for approximately 10 minutes

9. BOOKSTORES, SHOPS & SHOPPING HOURS

The most popular are Librairie de Provence and Librairie Goulard, both located on the cours Mirabeau near the Monoprix

See Le Petit Futé for store hours and addresses of used bookstores in Aix.

In Aix, most small shops close between 12:30pm and 2 or 3pm.

Monoprix is a chain of supermarkets and also a department store (larger version).

Two locations in Aix: Cours Mirabeau and Allées Provençales

Hours: Monday-Saturday 8:30am to 9:00pm; Sunday 9 am to 1 pm.

Monop' (smaller version) is located behind the Palais de Justice (on Place des Prêcheurs).

Hours: Monday-Saturday 8:30am to midnight; Sunday 9 am to 1 pm

Supermarkets:

Casino (near WIA) and its “satellites”: Casino Géant and Le Petit Casino (rue d’Italie)

Dia located between the Allées Provençales and the Rossini residence hall

U located on the boulevard du Roy René, near rue d’Italie

On Sundays and holidays, there are a few small grocery stores open in the center in the afternoon: Petit Casino, Vival, Cocci Market, Proxi Market, etc.

Picard is a chain of reasonably-priced, high-quality frozen foods in France. Look for the blue snowflake!

10. MUSEUMS

The most frequented in Aix are the Musée Granet next to the St Jean de Malte church and nearby Planque Collection, also part of the Granet and in a renovated chapel.

The Caumont Center (former music conservatory) in the Mazarin district was renovated in 2015 and is in a beautiful mansion. There is also a lovely restaurant with outdoor dining.

Check out Le Petit Futé

11. POST OFFICE

Hours: Monday to Friday, 8:30am to 6pm and Saturday from 9am to 12pm.

- La Petite Poste, Place de la Mairie
- La Grande Poste, at the Rotonde
- La poste Gambetta, at the corner of boulevard Roy-René and cours Gambetta

If you need to send a package or letter overnight:

FedEx : 0820 123 800

UPS : 0821 233 877

12. PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION

➤ Local transportation – Aix-en-Bus

There is no metro in Aix; the only form of public transportation is buses. The program provides all students with a "Jeune Plus" pass valid all year or semester. Ticket office to purchase 10-trip tickets located in the Office de Tourisme.

Note: Most buses stop operating around 9 or 9:30 pm on weekdays and 6 pm on weekends, and some may not run at all on holidays.

If there is a WIA group activity scheduled in the evening and the event goes beyond bus hours, students who live far from the center may be reimbursed for taxis. Students who live in the same general area can share a taxi. Don't forget to ask for a receipt (un reçu) !

➤ Travel outside of Aix

You can take inter-city buses, including the Aix-Marseille daily navettes and buses from the city center to the TGV train station at the Gare Routière (avenue de l'Europe).

There are also buses to Cassis, Arles and other coastal or mountain towns in the Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur (PACA) region; this is a great way to explore the region! Smaller towns and villages are not always accessible by train.

Note: A city bus is called "un bus". The term for buses between cities is "un car".

Train - Gare SNCF Aix centre-ville

Gare Aix Centre

The old train station, with daily trains to Marseille and regional trains to towns north of Aix and in the Alps. It's not a good idea to take late-night trains to or from Marseille.

Gare TGV

This train station is located 18 km from the center of Aix. The L40 bus leaves every 15 minutes from the gare routière. Travel time: 20-30 minutes. It goes on to the airport. If you purchase a 6-trip (or more) ticket, it will cost you less than a single-ride ticket.

Navette Aix TGV Aéroport

Travel time from Aix to Paris (Gare de Lyon) is 3 hours on the TGV.

TGV tickets are by reservation only and seats are assigned. You must pre-book.

The program provides all students with a Carte Jeune which enables you to buy discounted train tickets. The discount can be anywhere from 25% to 50%. The sooner you book, the less expensive the ticket!

Travel between Paris & Aix-en-Provence

A. By plane Travel time : 1 hour, 15 minutes

The Marseille-Provence airport is 32 km from Aix, and accessible by taxi (app. 60 euros) or the L40 shuttle bus which leaves every 15-20 minutes between 5:30 am and 11:30. Cost of 1-way ticket: 8€20. If you buy a multi-trip ticket, the cost is lower.

Marseille : 04 91 02 20 20

Marseille also has a subway. You can purchase tickets in subway stations.

Warning! If you go to Marseille at night for a soccer game, concert or other event that ends late, you may want to book a hotel room and spend the night, especially if you are alone. The area near Saint-Charles train station is not safe at night. Don't take unnecessary risks!

WELLESLEY-IN-AIX CODE OF CONDUCT

The program rules below are intended to ensure compliance with French laws and your personal safety (and that of other program participants) as well as a rewarding academic experience. They reflect the program mission and goals and your commitment to the latter. They complement the "Wellesley College Honor Code" (<http://www.wellesley.edu/GeneralJudiciary/procedures.html>)

All program participants will be expected to sign this document upon their arrival in France. Your signature indicates that you have read the G.A.P., understand the rules and expectation, and pledge to respect them. Repeated violations will result in a warning and your advisors in the U.S. may also be contacted. Students who put themselves and others at serious risk may be dismissed from the program.

I agree to

- 1) speak only in French with other WIA participants during group activities, at the WIA Center, in class, with homestay hosts and at all WIA events or gatherings where WIA is represented.
- 2) read and respond to all email requests from WIA staff (especially the Director), within 48 hours.
- 3) inform the WIA Director by email of my absences from Aix (weekends, holidays ...) and provide relevant details in the event of a problem or emergency (departure and return dates, destination or itinerary, type of accommodation, travel companions, contact info).
- 4) not duplicate or lend my keys (e.g., Tavan Center, housing) to individuals not connected to the WIA program.
- 5) not house anyone in my room or apartment without first obtaining permission from my French hosts, the WIA Director (in WIA-rented housing) and, if applicable, my roommate.
- 6) immediately report any problem related to my housing and accommodations in Aix (e.g., theft, property damage, malfunctioning equipment, etc.) to WIA staff.
- 7) go to the mandatory medical appointment scheduled by the French Immigration Office (OFII) to obtain my residence permit (if applicable), in keeping with French visa regulations.
- 8) abide by the rules at the Tavan Center pertaining to the use of common areas and equipment, language of communication and respect for others' rights, including WIA staff.
- 9) take my studies seriously, attend all classes and do all required work, and meet with the WIA Director monthly to discuss my academic progress and courses and provide the necessary information to ensure transfer credit.
- 10) do my utmost to be an excellent ambassador of the WIA program and "good citizen", i.e., showing respect toward others (French hosts, WIA staff and students, etc.) and understanding that my actions may impact other WIA participants and the WIA program in general.
